House to Sit Briefly In Fall, Bennett Says

A fall session of the legislature of one or two days' duration will be held this year, Premier Bennett said yesterday.

He said MLAs would gather here either in September or October to ratify changes in the present federal-provincial tax sharing agreement "but this will not mean an increase in taxation."

The premier added that members would be paid some allowance but that it would not be a full seasonal indemnity of $5,000.

He added that "present thinking" was for the session to ratify the tax agreement and then prorogue, but if the Columbia River financing arrangements needed to be approved by the legislature this would be done.

Firm Kennedy Stand May Ease Laos Issue

MAYOR MABEL ANDERSON

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy's firm stand on Laos appeared last night to be moving Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev toward acceptance of a peaceful solution of the civil war there.

It was understood that Soviet foreign minister Andrei Gromyko during his conference with Kennedy showed concern that the United States and its allies might take open action, presumably military, against the Soviet-backed rebel armies before hearing from the Kremlin.

Gromyko was said to have emphasized Russia's hope that the Western powers would take no action, through SEATO or otherwise, until receiving Khrushchev's formal reply to the Western peace proposal.

Kennedy was said to have received from Gromyko the impression that Russia would reply shortly to the U.S.-backed British proposal. It calls for an immediate ceasefire, a three-nation commission to verify and police the truce, and a 14-nation conference to work out a political solution to provide a unified, independent and "neutral" government.

MAJOR POINT
The proposed ceasefire has now emerged as the major bargaining point between Russia and the West. The United States and its allies are convinced Russia, which is supplying the Laotian rebels with large quantities of war materials, can call them off any time she wishes.

Kennedy went into yesterday's meeting with the firm support of British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan with whom he reached "absolute agreement" at their Key West meeting Sunday on a tough stand on Laos.

FIRST STEP

The president, during his session with Gromyko at the White House, was understood to have emphasized repeatedly the importance of a ceasefire as the first step to any long-range political settlement.

Gromyko's appeal for the allies to await Khrushchev's reply, together with a Pravda article indicating some "give" in the Russian position, appeared to have eased tension somewhat, although matters were still considered critical.

TIRED MLAs HEAD HOME AFTER BITTER SESSION

Legislature Prorogues

Weary legislators headed towards home last night after Lieutenant-Governor George R. Pearkes prorogued the House to bring to an end one of the stormiest and most sensational sessions of the B.C. legislature in recent years.

Final business was wrapped up quickly after the three House leaders—Premier Bennett, CCF Leader Robert Strachan, and Liberal Leader Ray Perrault—agreed to prorogue the House at 5 p.m.

It was a strenuous 44-day session, marked by six post-midnight sittings and by bitter battles over labor legislation and the highways and health departments.

The first session of the 26th Legislative Assembly began Jan. 26.

It will be remembered for many things, perhaps mostly for its hours of work.

The 52 members—32 Social Credit, 16 CCF and four Liberal—sat through Saturday afternoon and Friday night sittings which House veterans said they believed were unprecedented in B.C.

They sat through 18 night sittings, four times continuing through most of the night and once going 11 hours, adjourning at 7:05 a.m.

Seven Days Longer

The session ran seven days longer than that of 1960. Among bills passed, the most significant included:

Three-cent-a-gallon increase in the gasoline and motive diesel fuel taxes, bringing them to 13 and 15 cents a gallon, respectively.

Labor Relations Act amendments in which political contributions from union dues are forbidden under penalty of fines and loss of salary check-off privileges.

Education policy changes under which Grade 7 is moved from the elementary school level and the financial formula for operating costs of schools is altered extensively.

An act to exempt the Pacific Northern Railway from the Public Utilities Act under which it would have had to detail its building and financing plans before public hearings.

An act to allow the province to advance up to $5,000,000 to the publicly-owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway in lieu of a federal grant which Ottawa has said it never promised to pay.

An anti-discrimination act forbidding racial discrimination in public accommodation.

And an act under which government agencies, municipal councils, hospitals and school boards and universities in B.C. must make an annual financial statement detailing all spending, including salary lists.

Explosive Issues

Many explosive issues arose, generally centered around labor legislation, social-welfare policies of the government, the health department's refusal to table a report on mental health services and the highways department and Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi.

During the last two weeks, tempers frayed and noisy, bitter outbursts punctuated most late-night sittings. Once, as the opposition questioned the health minister for five hours trying to get him to table the mental health report, Premier W. A. C. Bennett attempted to invoke closure of debate.

The scene that followed was one of the wildest and most bitter here as the opposition accused the premier of disgraceful and disgusting conduct. That the premier failed—his motion was ruled out of order because he didn't have the floor when he moved it—could be laid to the hour and the anger of the moment. It came after midnight during the third all-night sitting of last week.

The CCF party's determined opposition to the labor legislation carried the House through two all-night sittings. Its attack on social welfare policies resulted in another.

From the start, the session appeared to be in a fighting mood and it ended on the same note. A CCF no-confidence motion raised against Mr. Gagliardi. And another attempt at a special debate on unemployment was ruled out of order on a day when more than 1,500 unemployed persons marched on the legislative buildings, crammed the corridors and filled the public galleries in the chamber.

A stormy battle erupted when the impartiality of the deputy speaker, Alex Mathew (SC—Vancouver Central) was questioned. The Opposition raised the issue when Mr. Mathew took the chair in debate on labor legislation. They said he had signed a letter to a newspaper as deputy speaker and in it had defended the legislation.

But both came up later. The government majority defeated the Speaker ruling his position was not competent to decide the question on Mr. Gagliardi, with the house defeating the unemployment motion.

Carole Tregoff Breaks Down

Finch, Tregoff Guilty Death Penalty Sought

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Dr. R. Bernard Finch Monday night was convicted of first-degree murder in the slaying of his wife. His former mistress, Carole Tregoff, was convicted of second-degree murder.

Both defendants also were convicted of conspiracy to commit murder, a capital offense. The prosecution said it will ask death in the gas chamber for both.

DEATH OR LIFE
The penalty for first-degree murder is death or life imprisonment; for second-degree, automatic five years to life.

Miss Tregoff, her long red hair streaming loosely over her shoulders, broke into tears at the verdict.

REACHED OVER
Finch, red-faced and tense, buried his face in his hands. Then he reached over and patted gently on the shoulder the girl with whom he was accused of plotting the murder.

DR. R. BERNARD FINCH — gentle pat

Finch, 43, onetime wealthy physician in suburban West Covina, admitted holding the gun which fired the fatal bullet on the lawn outside their fashionable home. But he said it was an accident while he tried to wrest the weapon away and throw it out of his frantic wife's reach.

The prosecution charged that Finch and his onetime employee, Miss Tregoff, planned the slaying after a hired killer failed to do the job.

AVOID SHARING
Prosecutors contend the couple wanted to avoid sharing Finch's estate with Mrs. Finch in a divorce settlement. For each defendant, the jury considered these verdicts:

1. Guilty of first-degree murder and/or conspiracy to commit murder. For either, the jury determines at a later hearing whether the penalty should be death in California's gas chamber or life imprisonment.

2. Guilty of second-degree murder, with an automatic sentence of five years to life in prison.

3. Acquittal.

'Fishy' Fire Rages Away

KELOWNA (CP)—Firemen battled desperately early today to prevent an uncontrolled fire in a cold storage warehouse from spreading to nearby buildings.

Already destroyed was a fruit packinghouse owned by Kelowna Growers' Exchange, hard hit March 14 when it lost four packinghouses in an $800,000 fire.

Mayor Dick Parkinson said: "There's something awfully fishy about this fire. It must have been a firebug."

Cold War Tensions Red Summit Topic

MOSCOW (UPI)—Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev probably will assess tensions existing with the Kennedy administration at a European summit meeting opening today in the Kremlin, observers said yesterday.

Laos, the Geneva nuclear test ban talks, disarmament, the Congo and the issue of Germany and divided Berlin

LET'S TALK

By Rudolf Flesch

There was a devastating piece on tests in Harper's magazine recently which just about finished the notion that aptitude or intelligence tests prove anything.

The author, Dr. Banesh Hoffman, is a mathematics teacher at Queens College, N.Y., who has analyzed hundreds of multiple-choice tests and has come to the conclusion they don't test what they're supposed to.

Dr. Hoffman's criticism applies to college entrance examination tests, national merit scholarship tests and all other U.S. tests in common use. Here's an example he quotes from a test used by the U.S. state department to select career diplomats up for promotion:

Which Way?

"You are an editor forced to turn down a scholarly book which you think is a good piece of work but which will not sell. Which one of the following statements would best inform the author of your decision without discouraging him?"

"(A) You'll probably think me grossly mercenary when I tell you that, good though I think it is, I must turn down your book because it would have very little commercial success."

"(B) You are obviously unfamiliar with the requirements of the publishing business—

Lots of Room

The official right answer to this test item is D. But when Dr. Hoffman showed it to 10 of his colleagues, four picked A, four C and only two D. Which proves that there's plenty of room for intelligent people to disagree with the answers preferred by the test makers.

Dr. Hoffman has collected dozens of equally ridiculous examples. Nobody has a right, says he, to pick college freshmen, scholarship recipients, ents or top executives by such an arbitrary and misleading method.

Before it's too late, let's abandon those fashionable multiple-choice tests and go back to old-fashioned factual achievement tests. Nothing can possibly go wrong with a test consisting wholly of items like "What year was Charles Magne crowned?"

The answer is 800 AD and either you know it or you don't.

Burning Tongue Usually Caused By Vitamin Lack

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, MD

"Dear Mr. Molner: The end of my tongue burns, and also my mouth. My doctor gave me a shot and medicine. They didn't help. I went to another doctor and he gave me some medicine but it doesn't seem to help. I am worried.—Mrs. E.W."

Common causes of burning tongue are lack of sufficient Vitamin B and lack of sufficient acid in the stomach. A less frequent one is pernicious anemia (which is treated by proper vitamin doses). Still others are sensitivities to some foods or to toothpaste or mouthwash.

Personally, I wouldn't want a patient to come to me and demand that I figure out on the first look, which cause was guilty. Possibly nine times in 10 I could be right the first time—but I'm sure that at least one time in 10 my first diagnosis would not be right and I'd have to discard it and try the next one.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Night scurries trouble have a bearing on digestive or elimination troubles?—R.T.S."

No.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Tell me what to do or use to dissolve cholesterol in the arteries.—Mrs. F.K."

This goes back to our discussion of a couple of weeks ago, doesn't it? It's doubtful whether you can do anything to "dissolve" cholesterol already deposited in hardened arteries.

$2,000,000 'Essentials' May Force End of City No-Borrowing Policy

Faced by essential capital projects worth close to $2,000,000, city council may have to abandon its "pay-as-we-go" policy and borrow money for the first time in more than 10 years.

Main capital works are a new city hall, to replace the old building, the $300,000 extension of Blanshard Street and $200,000 needed to revamp the Johnson Store-Wharf intersection.

Since 1950 Victoria has financed its way when needed by the sale of land which is reverted back to the city for non-payment of taxes.

But most of the lots have been sold and only some $100,000 is in the tax sale lands fund at present.

Buildings Roundup

We'll Consider BCE Take-Over Socreds' Shocker

Final hour of the first session of the 26th legislature yesterday saw members deal in jig time with 21 motions made by private members.

A surprise, even to its mover (Opposition leader Strachan) was a motion calling on the government to consider advisability of placing the B.C. Electric and East and West Kootenay Power companies under public ownership, which received unanimous support of the House.

SENTENCE CUT
Attorney General Bonner pledged government support of the motion, if a sentence stating private power companies "charge the consumer a high price for electricity in order to provide profits for shareholders" were deleted.

Mr. Strachan, apparently stunned by his easy victory for something he has sought in vain for many years, agreed with little hesitation.

SUDDEN SURPRISE
Earlier in the session Premier Bennett dropped a bombshell in the legislature by suddenly announcing the government might consider taking over the B.C. Electric if corporation taxes didn't provide enough provincial revenue.

Another motion which received unanimous support was one asking that a motion be sent to Prime Minister Diefenbaker calling for an investigation into the cost of drugs, to establish if fair and reasonable prices are charged the public.

ASKING QUESTIONS
Mover of the resolution, Bert Price (SC-Vancouver-Burrard) said: "I don't know what drugs cost, but people are asking questions because they have to pay such a high price for life-giving drugs."

A motion stating that deputy speaker Alex Mathew (SC-Vancouver Centre) no longer enjoyed confidence of the House, because of a letter he sent to a newspaper signed as deputy speaker which supported the controversial labor bill 42, was withdrawn.

NEVER AGAIN
Move came after proposer Arthur Turner (CCF-Vancouver East) and second Randolph Harding (CCF-Kaslo-Nicola) spoke out strongly against his action and warned "that an occurrence like this should never take place again."

Mr. Bonner described it as "one of the most regrettable resolutions ever brought out on the order paper... regrettable and unnecessary."

LEFT TWICE
Mr. Mathew left the House during the debate, returned to find the debate still on and left again.

The government refused a motion to file the Crippen Wright report on Columbia

Uranium Contract Denied

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Monday — and repeated six times — that there is no contract between Canada and Britain for sale of 12,000 tons of Canadian uranium to the United Kingdom in 1963-66.

He said in the Commons all that exists is a 1957 letter of intent from Britain to buy this amount of uranium at $2 a pound in that period.

He said that since early 1959 there have been intermittent discussions on renegotiation of this letter of intent because of Britain's decreased uranium requirements.

Mr. Diefenbaker said during tense Commons crossfire on the issue there had been no commitment by the government of any uranium contract because none existed.

Opposition Leader Pearson issued a statement last week accusing the government of concealing the contract while it watched uranium mines close for lack of work.

Today Mr. Pearson, after the prime minister's statement, pointed to this Commons statement March 6 by Trade Minister Hees:

Mr. Pearson quoted Mr. Hees as saying Friday the "contract" would be of great assistance to the uranium industry and there had been no reason to reveal the contract earlier.

The Liberal chief said the conduct of the government in the matter is "even more incomprehensible and incredible than I had previously thought it to be."

Why does International lead in heavy-duty sales?

'Lowest cost-per-ton-mile' sums up the reasons:

No one buys heavy-duty trucks on impulse—there's too much at stake. Many questions have to be answered before a decision is made.

How well will the truck do the job? Can it be depended on for maximum availability? Will operating costs be rock-bottom? How long will it last? How much will it be worth at trade-in time? Can the dealer be depended on for prompt parts supply and efficient maintenance?

To get the answers to such questions, truck buyers size up competitive dealers for their knowledge of trucks—their range of trucks—and their truck service facilities. Above all, they compare the operating costs of their own trucks and other units doing similar jobs.

When all these facts are weighed, you'll see why Canada's heavy-duty truck operators buy more Internationals than any other kind.

Records prove it—you'll get lowest cost-per-ton-mile with

$100,000 Set Aside Details Still Refused

The legislature yesterday approved expenditure of $100,000 to implement recommendations in the American Psychiatric Association's report on B.C.'s mental health services despite the government's refusal to let members know what the recommendations entailed.

AT PRINTERS

Welfare Minister Wesley Black, who piloted his colleague's estimates through the legislature, said the report now had gone to the Queen's Printers and would not be tabled this session.

(The government couldn't release a report after having a shotgun at its head, one cabinet minister said in the corridors.)

DUE COURSE

Mr. Black said the report would be made public in due course.

The dispute over the report began last week. Mr. Martin said he would not table the report until his estimates had been approved; the opposition said they would not approve his estimates until he tabled the report.

This stalemate was broken when Mr. Martin left for home on the grounds that he was ill.

David Batteat (CCF—Dewdney) said the House was being asked to vote $100,000 while it did not know how this was to be spent.

"Experts in our employ recommend that this be spent," said Mr. Black.

SHORT OF POINT

"It has not yet reached the point where it can be itemized," said Mr. Black.

Premier Bennett turned in his seat, his back to the opposition.

The CCF said the minister had promised to file the report and yet this hadn't been done. Nevertheless the House was asked to vote $100,000 to implement recommendations which no one, except a few in the government, knew anything about.

NO QUESTIONS

Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan said that last week there was a sum of $30,000 set aside for mineral surveys and yet the opposition had asked no questions.

"When you come to the point of implementing the recommendations of that survey we want to know what those recommendations are," said Mr. Strachan.

Wicks Issue Sidestepped By Bennett

Premier Bennett was put on the spot by Gordon Dowling (CCF—Burnaby) yesterday but sidestepped a direct question as to whether former labor minister Lyle Wicks will be the fourth member of the Public Utilities Commission.

"I don't pay any attention to rumors," he said. "I don't exclude anyone at any time from applying for a job in British Columbia."

There's a reason for our Multivent paper...

This Canadian invention registered as No. RD 02530/59 is now being manufactured under license in many countries throughout the world.

There's a reason... a good, sensible reason why you get a richer taste of tobacco from a Rembrandt than from any other cigarette. The reason is simply Multivent paper... a thin, thin paper lightened even more by countless tiny air vents. Fresh air is allowed to cool the smoke naturally, with every puff you draw. You get less paper and a cooler smoke... which automatically means more real tobacco flavour. It stands to reason: If you enjoy good tobacco... you'll get more tobacco flavour in a Rembrandt.

Multivent's the reason for Rembrandt's cleaner flavour!

Advice Needed

THE new American plan for solving the problems of Africa suffered a severe setback last week at the hands of the UN representative of the largest independent African nation.

After listening to Mr. Adlai Stevenson's proposals for opening discussions on an all-out African aid program which would call for the application of African initiative and responsibility "so that it will be clear to all of the world that it (the program) is by, of and for Africans," Mr. Jaja Wachuku of Nigeria rose to reject the American suggestion in what was labelled by observers as an ungracious—not to say rude—speech.

Mr. Wachuku made it clear that what Africans wanted was dollars, not words. And, he added, any call for African initiative was, in effect, an imposition on the African people. On the other hand, he said, the African nations would be prepared to listen to offers paralleling the United States' South American aid plan, which combines American initiative and American dollars in developing backward areas.

There is little question that the Nigerian rejection of the proposal severely shook the complacency of the United States UN delegation, particularly as it carried with it the implied threat that if the Americans did not supply the necessary initiative and dollars—with no strings attached—the African nations could always find the two commodities elsewhere.

A few more hard knocks like this will perhaps bring the realization to the United States administration that Africa and its people pose a complex problem to which no pat machine-calculated formula can be applied.

It must not be forgotten that although the dark continent is an entirely new territory to the United States government, there are others who have a thorough knowledge of it. Mr. Stevenson and his department would be well advised to consult with them before deciding to "go it alone" on any further mass-produced solutions. It would be no disgrace, even for the United States, to seek advice on such a question.

He Would Imprison the CBC

SINCE there are no Social Crediters in Parliament at the moment Canada seems safe from the likelihood of a Sacred government at Ottawa. What Mr. George Hahn would do, the mainland reeve from the Surrey district who has cast envious eyes on the Esquimalt-Saanich seat, perhaps does not matter seriously.

But it indicates the trend of his mind and what would happen if he and his ilk ever managed to secure federal power.

According to a Canadian Press dispatch from Vancouver, Mr. Hahn would make the CBC a handmaiden for Sacred philosophy and financial theory, which would be spread on television to educate Canadians to this type of thinking. That might not be so bad except in its confusing content, for Sacred monetary theories are so abstruse such publicity might defeat itself.

More to the point however is the disclosure by Mr. Hahn that a party committee is studying means of turning the CBC into a government information agency. That of course would be the deathknell of freedom of expression for the national broadcasting system.

Whatever its faults the CBC cannot be accused of favoring one political party above another. In a difficult aspect of broadcasting it manages to maintain an even balance. Sometimes one party or another complains it is being hardly dealt with, but this very dissent proves that as far as party politics is concerned the CBC plays no favorites.

All this would be changed, apparently, if the Sacred secured power. The CBC would become a mouthpiece for the government, proclaiming facts creditable only to it and permitting no word of criticism. This is the function of all government information agencies; they exist only to show the government concerned in a good light.

Capture of the CBC in this manner would lead inevitably to attempted control of all other means of mass communication.

This is the philosophy of the totalitarian state, as practiced for instance in Russia and Ghana, where only one-sided presentation of political facts is permitted. It is a form of national brain-washing.

Such then is the program and political promise of Mr. George Hahn as he hopes to win the Esquimalt-Saanich byelection. One imagines the voters there will give short shrift to these totalitarian concepts.

The Time Grows Ripe

PROCRASTINATION, the thief of time, can be the useful servant of politicians, but is apt to turn on a careless master. It begins to look as if that is what has happened at City Hall.

Politically, for aldermen anxious to offend no one, the propitious time to pass a new smoke-and-cinder bylaw would have been in midwinter. In winter, the smoke and fly-ash problem appears almost non-existent, and feelings subside. But in the warm, lazy breezes of spring, summer and early fall, smoke and cinders appear at their worst.

The days are growing balmer and gentler now, and the new smoke bylaw which council instructed the city planning and inspection division to draft early last fall—and never pushed for—has not yet been presented, although there were indications that if aldermen had wanted it they could have had it three months ago.

That it will now be debated when the days are warm and feelings are hot, however, may be all to the good for the city even if more ticklish for aldermen.

A bylaw passed in the cool of winter conceivably might, without much protest, have been too soft. A bylaw passed in the heat of summer, on the other hand, is not likely to be too stringent no matter how the victims of smoke and fly-ash may roar, because the last thing aldermen want to do is to drive away what little industry Victoria has.

The city patently needs a bylaw restrictive enough to oblige offenders to make further efforts at improvement, but not so restrictive as to put them out of business in this locality. It is to be hoped that city council will reach the best possible compromise in this respect—and so it may, now that spring is here.

Interpreting the News

Full Circle on Laos

By JACK BEST Canadian Press Staff Writer

CANADA'S policy toward Laos has been shaped by circumstances and events in which it has had precious little to say.

There could be no better illustration of the fact that Canada's fiddle is being played to somebody else's tune than the statement made in the Commons Thursday by Prime Minister Diefenbaker:

"Canada is prepared to serve on a reconvened international supervisory commission should the governments concerned agree that conditions exist which would permit the commission to play a worthwhile and effective role."

For a long time after the Canada-India-Poland commission adjourned sine die in July, 1958—at the instigation of the Laotian government—Canada appeared to resist all efforts to have it reconvened.

It stuck to its guns even after the national government, which was supposed to bring unity-in-neutrality to the southeast Asia kingdom, had come apart. Neutrality was enjoined on Laos under terms of the 1954 Geneva agreements which ended the Indochina war.

In steadfastly opposing the reconvening of the armistice commission despite recurring flare-ups in the Laotian civil war, the Canadian government found itself at loggerheads with the commission along with Poland.

Canada stood on the technicality that it would be useless to recall the commission as long as the government of Laos—which by this time had become strictly pro-American and was openly accepting huge quantities of American arms—refused to invite it back.

In those halcyon days the Laotian government thought it had the military situation in hand. Now the picture has evidently winning some important victories.

Also changed is the Canadian government's policy. Last fall, as the civil war in Laos warmed up, Mr. Diefenbaker let it be known that Canada would be willing to consider on its merits the question of reconvening the armistice group.

Early this year, as things got still warmer in the jungle kingdom, the Canadian government announced it would agree to have the commission reconvened if formally requested by Britain and Russia, co-chairmen of the 1954 Geneva conference.

Now the government has withdrawn even that nominal condition. In fact it seems almost eager to have the armistice commission reconvened.

Again Friday, Mr. Diefenbaker stated Canada's willingness to serve, adding that the commission would have "an important function to perform" in implementing proposals to conclude a permanent settlement in Laos.

Thus Canada has come full circle from the position it adhered to until last year. This reflects the government's anxiety that the situation in strategic Laos has come very close to getting out of hand.

Thinking Aloud

... of shoes—and ships—and sailing wax—of cabbages and kings"

By TOM TAYLOR

I AM a bit late thinking about St. Patrick, albeit I didn't wholly escape his mantle ten days ago. Who could? But a big picture of a shamrock on the front page of a Maritime newspaper arrests my eye at the moment and invites an appropriate mood.

Of all the four saints of the English-speaking heritage St. Patrick somehow seems the most intimate. Whether this is because driving snakes out of a charming land appeals to us, or because of the other human attributes ascribed to him, does not matter much.

He puts his stamp on us more individually once a year than do any of the other three.

Something of this may stem from the fact that he was a Welshman turned Irish; this seems dynamic enough explanation for anything. Either image is pungent by itself; added together they create a force that makes us sit up and take notice, Irish and pseudo-Irish alike.

The Halifax newspaper has an article on Maconus Succetus Patricius, as it cites him, and not surprising since the issue is dated March 17. I read it with interest, if only to make amends to St. Patrick.

Patrick was born near the Severn, where according to other sources his father was a magistrate-cum-farmer-cum-deacon. The article I am referring to says Patrick's father was a high-ranking Roman official, and perhaps he was that too. By the time of Patrick's birth Romans and their native subjects were fairly well integrated, there apparently being no racial discrimination in those days to prevent assimilation.

By the token of a modern Canadian census Patrick might even be called a Roman himself, although likely neither the Irish nor the Welsh would agree with this proposition. But if it takes centuries to make a Canadian then Patrick, had he been forced to fill out a census return, would have had no alternative but to describe himself as a Roman.

As you well know Patrick became more Irish than the Irish, who all swear by him now and not at all to be wondered at. He was a great man. He makes Irishmen of us all, practically every March 17, and that is a notable feat in itself.

The other three of our saints seem paler by comparison. And yet St. David—Wales produced two of the four—has a distinction all his own. He denies the thesis that a prophet has no honor in his own country. He stayed at home and filled the Principality with his influence, which is why the leek is worn on March 1. This is because his prayers enabled the Welsh to defeat the Saxons on this date.

Legend has it, also, by the way, that David was an aristocrat, the son of a prince, a circumstance that would be no drawback to his eminence.

There is legend attached to all four of the British saints but the remaining two are, admittedly, more legendary. At least they were strangers to the lands which adopted them. The Middle East was the area of their labors, although saints being what they are doubtless they are not displeased with the adoptions.

Andrew, who was known as the first disciple, who was crucified on a cross shaped like the letter X, hence the saltire that Scotland uses. He is not so faithfully remembered by Scots as Patrick is by Irishmen, yet he started Scotland on its way to fame when his cross appeared to King Angus in a pre-battle vision. Naturally Angus won the battle.

George fought battles of a different kind, although he too stimulated the stout-hearted from the mists, thus helping the early Crusaders from England. But he subdued a dragon and rescued a princess from distress, and in this symbolized the victory of good over evil, which made the later cry, "St. George for Merrie England," a fitting slogan for any nation.

They are an interesting lot, are these four national saints, and we in Canada bask in their aegis.

Washington Calling

Members Dismayed

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WHILE political memories are notoriously short, no one who heard John F. Kennedy in his confrontation of the Greater Houston Ministerial Association in Texas last September will soon forget that occasion. Before an audience in large part skeptical if not hostile he spoke with a quiet depth of conviction rare in the fierce give and take of a presidential campaign.

"I ask you tonight to follow in that tradition," he said of the separation of church and state in American life, "to judge me on the basis of my record of 14 years in Congress—on my declared stands against an ambassador to the Vatican, against unconstitutional aid to parochial schools and against any boycott of the public schools which I have attended myself."

The position he took was unequivocal. The Democrats paid for a 28-station television hookup to blanket Texas with the dramatic confrontation in a state strongly Protestant of the second Catholic ever to run for the presidency. This was believed at the time to have notably enhanced the chances of the Democratic candidate as voter sentiment had been reported about evenly divided.

On the question of school aid, which he put high on his list of urgent needs, there can never have been any doubt as to President Kennedy's stand. He had quieted the fears of many voters as a Catholic president. They accepted the earnest assurance of his belief in an America where the separation of church and state is absolute.

By the stand he took and by his election, even though by a hairbreadth margin with the votes of Protestants, Jews and Catholics, many hoped that the "religious issue" would be laid to rest. It is against this background that members of Congress are dismayed at the way in which religion has arisen again so that, with the insistence of the Catholic hierarchy on the inclusion of loans for parochial schools in the bill to provide grants to public schools, this factor may seem to bring about the defeat of any school program.

Congressmen are getting a barrage of mail on the subject which breaks down roughly into three categories. At one extreme are Catholic parents who write often in strong, almost violent, terms to say that any aid bill which does not include at the very least the parochial loan provision will be discrimination. This is the position of the hierarchy.

At the other extreme are Protest-

Reports From Ottawa

THE sugar was an inch thick when Trade Minister Hees urged the women at the Conservative convention to "Buy Canadian" even, he said, if it means paying a little more or getting a little less.

The sugar I mean is not the hand-some minister's syrupy sweetness. With the ladies—an approach that got them as titillated as teenagers over rock-n-roll crooners, and earned him a "new sobriquet": "Kissin' George." Rather, I mean the sugar on the "buy Canadian" proposal.

For what Hees is asking Canadians to do, with his "even if" qualification, is to accept a lower standard of living, and to do it voluntarily, as a contribution towards greater industrial activity, certainly, but equally as a contribution towards getting the government off the hook.

It is elementary that if you pay 11 cents for a Canadian item rather than 10 cents for an imported item of equal quality, you are reducing your standard of living. Also when you pay 10 cents for a Canadian item in preference to 10 cents for an imported item of superior quality. True, you'd never notice the one cent difference. But you'd notice a $100 difference on a $1,000 item.

I do not object to the government appealing to us to spend our money on goods and services of Canadian origin rather than imported goods and services—although I cannot help an ironic recollection of the scrapping of the CF-105 in preference for, it now transpires, the American F-101 Voodoo interceptor. But I do wish that the government, in making this appeal, would be more frank.

Instead of Heesian soft-soap, let the government give out some hard facts:

that it wants us to take the initiative in reducing the Canadian standard of living. That this will be good for the country because it will spread the wealth more widely. That this will help take the government off a twin-horned dilemma: if the government tries to increase tariffs to make higher cost Canadian goods more competitive with imports, it runs into its tariff commitments to other nations and invites retaliation. And if it tries the direct approach of higher personal taxes and lower industrial taxes it invites defeat in the next election.

The fact is that the state of the economy demands a bit of belt tightening, a touch of austerity, a modicum of a more Spartan life. We're soft, we've been living beyond our means as a nation and as individuals, and we need a government strong enough to tell us so.

Instead we get Kissin' George cooing at the ladies to contribute a penny here and a penny there under a pseudo-patriotic slogan.

It's the same mentality that wouldn't let "defence" be mentioned in the 1960 Throne Speech, or "unemployment" in the 1960-61 Throne Speech, or admit that the recession was a recession, and a "surplus manpower area" was a depressed area.

Shinwell Right

That Wily Hot Pepper

By CASSANDRA, from London

THAT wily old red-hot pepper of politics, Mr. Emanuel Shinwell, has said flatly that, as far as official government receptions are concerned, he will never go to them again. He is in no two minds about it:

"No. Receptions are out. I want to say quite clearly to any representative of the foreign office or any other government department, 'Please don't invite me to any of your receptions.' I add that I have no desire to be invited to any of their luncheons—they are usually a very poor show anyhow."

"Besides, one might find oneself with people on the right wing and on the left wing who are utter bors."

I am sure that Mr. Shinwell is right.

Day after day, month after month, year after year, HM government hold their official receptions and if you read the lists of guests you will find that there is a hard central core of eaters, drinkers and, according to Mr. Shinwell, very indifferent talkers who at public expense gnaw and swallow and bore their way through interminable official occasions.

On the point of being placed next to insufferable bors, I am very much with Mr. Shinwell and to reinforce this point about sitting next to the unspeakable, he told the following tale:

"There is a well-known story for which the historian Macaulay is responsible—and this is not entirely irrelevant to the subject of hospitality. Macaulay wrote about being at some dinner in his day when his neighbor on the left was a stern-vuaged old gentleman with mutton-chop whiskers."

Not a Word

"Macaulay could not get a word from him, no matter how hard he tried, and came to the conclusion, as one does in such circumstances, that the old gentleman was one of those strong, silent men, but obviously very wise."

"Suddenly the butler placed on the table a tureen of dumplings and the old gentleman said: 'Them's the pud dens for me!'"

As Mr. Emanuel Shinwell gloomily records: "That is the sort of thing that can happen."

Now what is it like to dine with Mr. Shinwell?

I will tell you. It is rather like having a meal with Mr. Pickwick, Mephistopheles, Isaiah and Tiger-Tim rolled into one.

Emanuel what a magnificent name and how deplorable it is that he should be known by the wretched diminutive of "Manny!" gives you the welcoming cup of hemlock with a grin and such is the magic of the man that you down the poisonous draught feeling, "This is the stuff for me."

Not for nothing was the member for Easting known, in association with Lord Winterton, as "Arsenic and Old Lace."

He Twinkles

He looks like Mr. Punch, he twinkles, and when he begs you to reform, to show some slight sense and be your age, you feel "Maybe I am wrong after all. This is the Good Uncle. I shall mend my ways."

As, mistakenly, you eye the Penitent's Stool and think, maybe after all, it might be a good place for a nice sit down. Mr. Pickwick throws you a live hand-grenade, remarking pleasantly: "A present, dear boy. I know you collect Easter eggs."

But alas, it seems that the Fighting Temeraire will no longer sail ablaze into the bors of public life. The heat will be off and pomposity and prolixity will be safe from the searing Shinwell flame.

Baffling World

Among the winners of the Euro-vision song contest were "The Allison Brothers."

They look alike. They sing alike. They have the same hairstyles. And they dress alike.

The elder of the brothers is called John Allison. The younger is Bob Allison.

John Allison's real name is Brian Alford. Bob Allison's real name is Colin Day.

Neither of the Allison Brothers is related to the other. Just two different guys working under four different names.

It's a baffling world.

This Childish Bed-Pushing

(From the Cleveland Plain Dealer)

Instead of this childish bed pushing, why don't the Canadian under-graduates spend their efforts in worthwhile enterprises? Why can't they be normal and see how many of them can crowd into a telephone booth? What do they have against swallowing live goldfish? You'd think they never heard of raids on girls' dormitories or sorority houses to collect female unmentionables.

We love our cousins to the north but there are times when we can't understand their culture. Bed pushing; imagine that.

only to see it rise and leave the robin dead on the muddy field. I have seldom seen a man so upset as when he told me of this outrage.

It is not easy, sometimes, to look into the natural world. It is not merely the destiny of countless small birds, mice, chipmunks, rabbits, to be killed and eaten by other animals. It is their function in life.

And that is a hard thing for humans to realize. Whatever the function of predators like foxes, wolves, certain hawks and owls, weasels and mink, it is certainly the function of a definite percentage of other creatures to supply the means of life to those animals.

The best answer to my friend's state of mind is given by a biologist of my acquaintance.

"It is the function," he says, "of only a percentage of certain animals to be killed and eaten by other animals. But it is the function of a hundred percent of sheep to be killed and eaten."

I guess even the old ones go into some kind of hamburger.

Man has learned how to waste nothing but his sympathy.

Another Mall?

There is only one logical and sensible site for a shopping mall in Victoria, and that is on Douglas Street, from Herald to Fort. It is a natural site, as most of the large retail stores are located there, and being a wide thoroughfare it lends itself to every sort of installation required in a real modern mall.

Come on Victorians, Mexican sets and jig-saw sets are for children only.

ARTHUR LEVY.

P.S.: Why is it called Greater Victoria, while it is not even a Great Victoria, but with its four municipalities snapping at each other, like a four-headed dragon, instead of trying to amalgamate as a great city should to prepare for our centennial year in 1962?

Earning Contempt

Any union member who deducts a nickel from his monthly B.C. Electric bill will be commended by the agitated fanatics who originated this scheme. He will also create a nuisance for the utility company and slow down, by an infinitesimal fraction, the pace of its ponderous machinery. Let him board his nickels with pride—and let him think of this with shame:

Those whom he will hurt the most belong with him in the ranks of organized labor. They are capable, hard-working employers; like him, they are members in good standing of an international union, and they work in a union shop. They are the workers who will process his bill with added labor, and see his name, and recognize him for a sheep. They are workers to whom he will bleed an appeal when his own union is in difficulties. Does he expect their sympathy?

For every nickel he withholds, he will earn a dollar's worth of contempt from rank and file union members who think for themselves.

March is Canadian Red Cross Month, and through the newspapers we read of the Red Cross and of the excellent work it accomplishes in different parts of the world.

But, Mr. Editor, may I, through the columns of your paper, and in a few words, draw attention to the wonderful work done right in Victoria; to be specific, in the Red Cross Lodge adjacent to the Veterans' Hospital.

After a spell as a patient in the Veterans' Hospital, I cannot speak too highly in praise of the warm welcome given to the wives of veterans and of the cosy and comfortable rooms made available to them at "The Lodge," and last, but not least, I would like to draw your readers' attention to the time and effort given so freely by all those wonderful ladies, "the volunteer workers," in that branch of the Canadian Red Cross, and of their work in the Red Cross Canteen, the favorite meeting place in that locale.

Double-Jeopardy Precept Upheld; City Man Freed

A principle of British justice which outlaws "double jeopardy"—a second trial for the same offence—was upheld in city police court yesterday.

Magistrate William Oatler, in a lengthy judgment, held that Sidney Travers, 23-year-old Victorian, having once been acquitted on a charge of possessing stolen property, could not be tried again on the same charge.

Travers was released.

88 RINGS

Last October Travers was accused of possession of 88 rings obtained by the commission "in Canada" of the crime of theft. Subsequently trial was opened, city prosecutor T. P. O'Grady offered no evidence, and the charge was dismissed.

Almost immediately a new charge was read against Travers, identical with the first but specifying the commission "anywhere" of theft. On this charge trial proceeded, and Travers was convicted and jailed.

CASE APPEALED

The case was appealed, and Appeal Court ordered the case returned to magistrate's court with a plea of "autrefois acquit"—previously acquitted.

Magistrate Oatler's judgment, followed lengthy argument by defence counsel George Gregory and Mr. O'Grady.

Points made by the magistrate included the fact that the original charge could have been amended at the time; that there was in fact a decision on the merits in the first case; that the offences were similar.

Pleading guilty in city police court yesterday to eight separate charges of breaking and entering, Kenneth Thompson, 19, of 816 Lamson, was remanded to April 5 for probation report and sentence.

An accomplice, nabbed by city police with Thompson, will be dealt with in juvenile court.

RAIDS LISTED

Charges covered a period dating back to Feb. 24 and include raids on Kilshaw's Auctioneers Ltd., 1115 Fort; Northern Junk Ltd., 1314 Wharf; Johnson Esso, 504 Johnson; Mal's Cafe, 2251 Government; Victoria Auto Wreckers, 631 Princess; Tyee Service Station, 100 Esquimalt; and Palmer's Stove Store, 571 Johnson.

A camera, an electric razor and a quantity of candy bars and cigarettes were recovered, court was told.

Canada Ready For Laos Call

OTTAWA (UPI)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Monday Canadian personnel had been on a standby basis "for some time" to resume this country's role in the three-nation international truce supervisory commission for Laos when it is reactivated.

Diefenbaker told the House of Commons that "prospects for negotiated settlement of the situation" had improved with indications that Russia would likely agree to British proposals for an immediate ceasefire.

FULL-SCALE

Canadian personnel had been ready on a stand-by basis for some time, he added, to take up "full-scale" work with the truce commission following a ceasefire and reactivation of the commission.

LISBON (UPI)—A yelling mob of 20,000 persons stoned the United States embassy here last night during a protest demonstration over alleged interference in Portuguese African territories.

The demonstration marked the latest outburst by Portuguese against the United States for voting with Russia in the United Nations in favor of an investigation of recent racial disturbances in Angola.

Space Ear In '62

OTTAWA (UPI)—The prototype of a satellite which could lead to more accurate predictions of radio reception was unveiled Monday by Canadian scientists.

The satellite, known as the "Topside Sounder," will study for the first time in detail the upper side of the ionospheric belt which circles the earth. Whims of this electronic belt play havoc with radio reception.

The 280-pound, oval satellite will be put into orbit early next year from Vandenberg air base, Calif., aboard a U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration Thor-Agena rocket.

CHIEF BUGBEAR

Dr. John Chapman, defence Research Board scientist in charge of the project, said Canada has an obligation to carry out these studies because the Northern Lights, chief bugbear of communications, lie mainly over Canada.

Two satellites like the "Topside Sounder" could do the work of hundreds of ground stations now gathering information about the ionosphere, he said.

WEATHER EYES

In 10 years these satellites could provide radio reception information just as weather satellites would provide. He said accurate daily maps of radio reception, as opposed to longrange guesses now, would help airlines, the armed forces and radar networks.

Vicar Not Alone

LONDON (Reuters)—A boarding house keeper said Monday he once accompanied Rev. Bryn Thomas and Mrs. Elsie Brandy in the vicar's car because the vicar said he did not like to be alone with her.

David Silverstone Morton was testifying in a church court hearing charges the vicar committed adultery with Mrs. Brandy and indecently assaulted two young girls.

Another witness, a 17-year-old girl, said she rehearsed a psalm in the vicar's study with one of the complaining girls and the vicar was not alone in the study at any stage with the other girl.

Morton also testified the vicar was attending a party at his boarding house on a date when he was alleged to have had sexual relations with Mrs. Brandy.

The vicar has described the allegations against him as a "series of wicked concoctions" by Mrs. Brandy and his curate, Rev. George Neely.

BULLETIN:

Extraordinary ingredient in today's Super Shell is made by tearing petroleum apart to give you faster warm-up and top performance

Today's Super Shell packs no fewer than nine ingredients into one gasoline.

Among them is an ingredient called mixed pentanes. This quick-firing component is made by tearing the heavier molecules of petroleum apart—much as you split kindling to get a fire going faster.

As a result, your engine warms faster—delivers top performance in a hurry.

COLD ENGINES can never deliver top performance. They also waste gasoline.

That's why Shell scientists add mixed pentanes to today's Super Shell. Blended into Super Shell's formula, this ingredient speeds up the delivery of heat to your engine.

Top performance without coaxing

Shell makes mixed pentanes by subjecting petroleum to terrific heat. Under this ordeal, the heavier hydrocarbons are torn apart and transformed into lighter, quick-burning molecules.

When blended into Super Shell, these quick-burning molecules work much like kindling in a log fire. They ignite easily and get everything going faster. Your engine soon loses that hesitant feeling it has when starting cold. You don't have to coax it into delivering top performance.

Dramatic effect

The effect of mixed pentanes may well be one of the most dramatic things you'll notice after you fill up with today's Super Shell. But you'll notice a number of others, too. Mixed pentanes is only one of the nine Super Shell ingredients that give your car top performance.

Read about the other eight. What they are and what they do. The extra benefits of today's Super Shell may surprise you.

Ingredient #2 is TCP for power, mileage and longer plug-life

Super Shell now contains an even better version of this famous additive. It was originally developed for use in aviation gasoline.

Close-up TV shot assures Shell scientist that experiment is proceeding safely. Radiation hazard here is not great, but Shell takes no chances, performs the bombardment by remote control. Men are protected by thick concrete walls and electrically operated doors that cannot be opened while the apparatus is operating.

TCP[®] additive can give your car up to 15 per cent more power; 17 extra miles per tankful; and make your plugs last twice as long.

Today's aviation-grade TCP does this by neutralizing the harmful effects of engine deposits. It stops them from glowing when hot—a major cause of power loss.

It also stops them from diverting your spark—a major cause of "missing."

Ingredient #3 is "cat-cracked" gasoline for power with a purr

This is petroleum that has actually cracked under 900-degree heat and catalytic action. Its heavier molecules have been shattered into livelier, lighter ones.

The result is a high-octane ingredient that makes your engine purr with power the moment you put your foot down.

NOTE: "Cat-cracking" refers to the use of a catalyst—a substance that has the mysterious ability to alter molecules without changing itself.

Ingredient #4 is heavy alkanes—for both power and economy at all speeds

Shell scientists will tell you that gasoline can be too sensitive.

That's their unflattering description of a gasoline that performs well enough when you're driving slowly but causes knock and loss of power at higher speeds.

Super Shell behaves itself at all speeds. Shell scientists insist on it. They "discipline" today's formula with heavy alkanes, a high-octane ingredient that is notably insensitive.

Result: Super Shell gives you top performance whether you're in slow traffic, or accelerating, or cruising on a super-highway.

NOTE: Heavy alkanes also have the advantage of lowering your fuel consumption. Your engine can use them up slowly—and still give you all the power you need.

Ingredient #5 is anti-knock mix for extra resistance to knocks. You might suppose that two high-octane ingredients would be enough to give you knock-free performance. But Shell's scientists have ears like musicians.

They insist on adding a special anti-knock mix. A mix, so effective, one teaspoon per gallon can boost anti-knock rating by seven points.

This mix has the tricky job of regulating combustion so that Super Shell gives each piston a firm, even push—rather than a sharp blow which would cause a knock.

Ingredient #6 is butane for quick starts on icy mornings

By itself, butane is so volatile that it would actually boil in your refrigerator. In Super Shell, it helps your engine fire in seconds. Think what this means in cold weather. Your battery is relieved of strain—and so is your patience.

NOTE: Super Shell is primed with butane all year round. In winter, Shell scientists simply increase the "quick-start" dose.

Ingredient #7 is an "anti-icer" to stop stalls due to carburetor icing

Super Shell's formula is adjusted up to eight times a year for your area to beat the weather. Whenever the temperature is likely to be less than forty-five degrees, an anti-ice ingredient is added.

Why add anti-icer at forty-five degrees? Because even then, frost can form in your carburetor just as it does in your refrigerator. It can choke your engine dead.

Ingredient #8 is gum preventive to keep the fuel system clean

Even the purest gasoline can form gum when stored. This can clog carburetors, fuel lines, and pumps. But, with Super Shell you needn't worry. A special gum preventive does the trick.

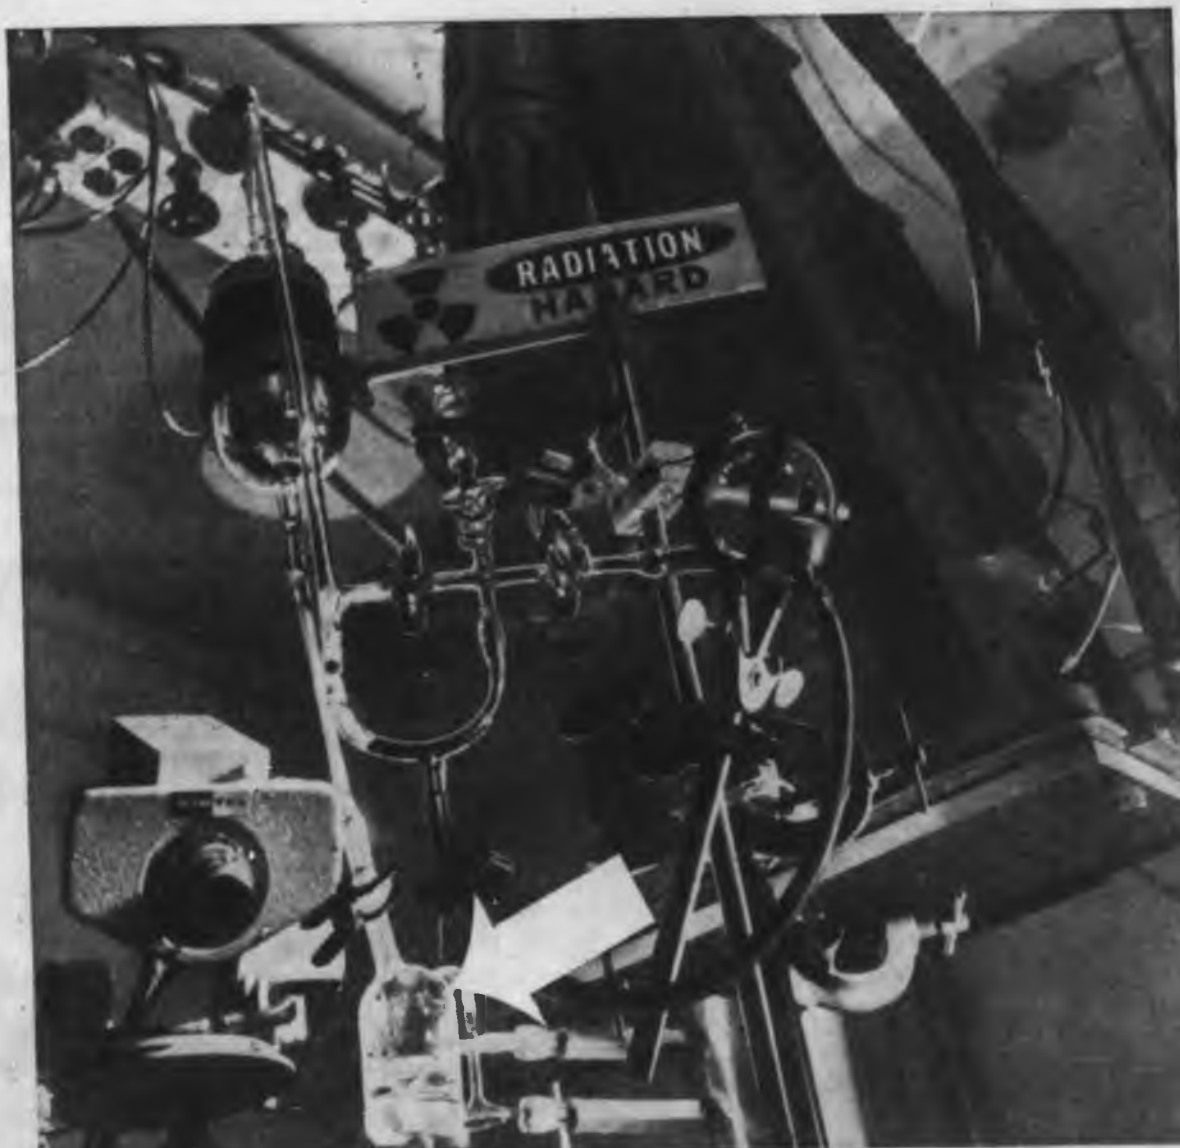

It acts like a policeman controlling a mob. Keeps an eye on unstable elements—stops them from clotting and forming gum.

Super Shell makes gummed-up engines a thing of the past.

Ingredient #9 is Platformate for extra energy, more mileage

It takes one million dollars' worth of platinum catalyst for Shell to produce its Platformate. But fortunately for you and for us, this precious stuff can be used over and over again.

The platinum process, which gives Platformate its odd name, re-forms

Television camera watches as mixed pentanes flow under a giant Van de Graaff generator. Here a high intensity electron beam smashes into a thin film of the mixed pentanes. This results in some highly dramatic, though invisible, reactions. Shell scientists analyse these reactions as part of their continuing study of engine behaviour and of the fuel requirements for top performance.

petroleum into super-energy components—such as benzene, toluene and xylene.

These three alone release 7 per cent more useful energy per gallon than the best 100-octane aviation gasoline.

But make no mistake. This is not untamed energy. Far from it. The super-energy of Platformate is harnessed by the eight other ingredients in Super Shell, where it behaves so well you scarcely know it's there. That is, until you note your extra mileage. After that, there is no doubt.

Test Super Shell for yourself

Try Super Shell next time you fill up. You'll soon feel and hear a difference in the way your engine runs.

That difference is top performance.

Biblical Play Stirs TV Storm

LONDON (AP)—Stacks of religious program aimed at youth.
The play was written for teen-agers by Rev. Ernest Marvin, minister of St. James'
Presbyterian Church, Bristol.

The play's many songs made biting attacks on present-day selfishness and apathy.

They nearly always extolled the virtues of Christianity.

The television spokesman said they received many telephone calls after the play and one London woman said: "It was the most moving thing
I've ever seen on television."

Earlier, 17 MPs offered a motion of protest in Parliament.

But the play, "A Man Dies," went on. Viewers saw it during a regular Sunday night

Nanaimo to Fight Ashbee's Transfer

DON ASHBEЕ
... storm centre again

Don Ashbee, storm centre of the Inter-City Lacrosse League for the past six years, will probably line up with Victoria this season, but if he does it will be over the dead bodies of the Nanaimo lacrosse club.

Word from the Victoria club yesterday that Ashbee has applied for a transfer here brought a promise from Nanaimo president Bill McFarlane that the deal "will be fought all the way."

"I don't see why we should not fight it," he said. "It's strictly a matter of them offering him more money, and I thought the league frowned on such deals. Ashbee never even showed us the form for transfer he sent to the league, and we're supposed to sign it."

Any application for transfer must be approved by the league commission before it becomes valid, but the Victoria club doesn't anticipate any trouble on the Ashbee deal.

"We needed someone like him, and we went after him," coach Arnie Ferguson said. "Ashbee wants to play lacrosse here, and Nanaimo really hasn't any complaint. Look at all the players they've taken from Victoria—Ross Roskamp, Bill Bamford, Mel Davison, Norm Kowalyk, Ed Longpre, Archie Browning and Don Sherry. This business of getting players from another team is a two-way street, you know."

There is no doubt that Ashbee is worth fighting for. Since coming to the league in 1955 he has been one of the most colorful, most penalized and highest-scoring players around. The records speak for themselves. In four of those six seasons he has scored 50 or more goals—66 in 1956, and 50 in 1955, 58 and 60. Only twice has he been out of the top 10 scoring. Last year was perhaps his greatest. Although he missed six games he scored 50 goals and assisted on 12 for 62 points and seventh place in the league race. Only Jack Blonda scored more goals than Ashbee.

A long-time target of fans everywhere but Nanaimo, Ashbee has been in hot water more than once for brawling or arguing with referees. But he has three things the Victoria club needs—color, the ability to score a goal when it is needed, and a fierce desire to win.

BOXER BRIEFS: Coach Arnie Ferguson will announce shortly that the club has signed a highly-regarded eastern Canada player... still no word from Al Gill whether his retirement plans are definite, or from Ron Jay on whether or not he will return from the east for another season... plans to sign two New Westminster juniors have hit a stumbling block. The New Westminster club will not give

Wakeham Medalist
As Lone Par-Buster
In Qualifying Round

Bill Wakeham, former Canadian junior champion and one of the five previous winners to qualify, Sunday won medal honors in the 18-hole qualifying round of the Vancouver Island match play golf championship by being the only one of the record field of 181 to better Gorge Vale's par of 72.

Wakeham, who could have been close to a record had he had his putting touch, went out in 36 and came back in 35 for a 71. He was putting for birdies on 12 holes and had two chances for eagles on the greens. He almost lost the medal by bogeying two of the last three holes.

TWO AT PAR

Tied for runner-up honors were John Merriman of Gorge Vale and Dick Munn of Cedar Hill, the only two golfers to equal par figures. Laurie Carroll, another former winner of the event, was by himself at 73.

Defending champion Art Donaldson of Gorge Vale qualified handsily with a 74 and was a threat for medal honors after 14 holes. One under at the time, he lost his chance with four bogeys on the last five holes.

Among other qualifiers were former champions Laurie Kerr and Joe Briggs and youthful Vic Dorman, who won the handicap championship last year. Mel Carlow, assistant at Gorge Vale, Colwood's Bill Court and Cowichan's Mel Evans, three of the eight professionals entered, missed qualifying although seven golfers made it by scoring no better than 80.

Match play starts Sunday at Uplands Golf Club with the feature of the first round the clash between Wakeham and Victoria's George Bigelow, a tourney-wise veteran.

City Rinks Raid Courtenay

COURTENAY — Five Victoria rinks left for home Sunday evening facing a cramped ride, their cars bulging with prizes they had won at the third annual men's bonspiel at the Comox Valley Curling Club—items such as gladstone bags, grocery hampers and ice chests. Between them, they almost scored a bonspiel sweep. They won four of the five events, two of them won prizes from two events and one shared the Grand Aggregate Trophy.

Big winner was Gar Taylor's combination of Gordie Moore, Wilkie Gardner and George Lindsay. It won the No. 1 primary event and shared the Grand Aggregate with Lyall Dagg of Vancouver, who was calling the shots for Pete Jarvie of Nanaimo and Terry Nugent and Harry Squires of Courtenay.

Dagg, who made it a sweep for visiting skips by winning the No. 2 primary, and Taylor both wound up with 94 records.

TEST TELLS

Fuller, who rattled off 10 straight victories in a try for a sweep of top honors, found the grind a bit too much on Sunday and was beaten in both primary finals. A shaky start against Taylor when he missed two key shots and got off to a 0-6 start proved too much and he eventually lost by 11-5. Fuller could never get started against Dagg, conceded after six ends with the score 13-1.

Victoria's Bob McIntosh, who lost his first two games to drop into both secondary events, also reached two finals. In the Hap Flowers event, he outscored hometown Wayne Aitkenhead, 16-10. Trying for his ninth straight win, McIntosh was beaten, 14-8, by Jim Tang's Victoria rink in the Squire event.

McIntosh was vice-skip of his rink and Allan Paul on the teehead with Pete Johansen throwing second rocks and Pete McGinnis leading off. Tang's rink was skipped by Jim Dickson and included Ken Sturrock and Laurie Perlette.

STRONG FINISH

Fourth Victoria trophy-winner was the Larry Marshall-Eric Bullock-Joe Dukowski-Dr. Miller partnership. After a slow start which dropped it into the Overwaitea event, it came through with four straight wins on Sunday. Two draws to the four-foot ring by Marshall on the last end in the final against Ken Aitken of Courtenay brought an 8-7 win.

Al Clevette, who had Les Brice and Norm Richardson alternating as skips with Bud Taylor as the other member, did almost as well as the other Victoria rinks. He won two prizes, losing out in the semis of the No. 1 primary and the No. 2 secondary.

Richard Willing to Coach Rangers

Maurice Richard is ready to return to the National Hockey League as a coach, and he said yesterday that he would accept a job with the New York Rangers if it was offered to him.

Rangers are currently coachless after informing Al Pike last week that he would not be rehired for next season.

"I would take the job of coach with the Rangers," Richard said in Chicago, "but I would lay down certain conditions."

He would not name any of the conditions he had in mind when queried about it.

"I would like to have authority to choose a few players from Canadiens to help the Rangers' cause," he smiled.

He added that "the situation of Rangers is far from rosy. For some time now they have fired more coaches than players."

In Chicago for Sunday night's Stanley Cup game between his old team and the Chicago Black Hawks, Richard reportedly was involved in a fist exchange with a boisterous fan which ended when Richard connected.

It was said that the fan had been giving Richard verbal abuse throughout the game and when he met Richard in a corridor after the game, ignored warnings to keep his distance and swung instead.

Another version was that cause of abuse handed out during the game to a Montreal announcer.

GARY PLAYER, having his greatest year ever, Sunday won the Sunshine open golf tournament at Miami Beach.

The South African star shot a 272 for 72 holes, one stroke less than taken by Arnold Palmer, who made up three strokes on the final round.

Mike Souhak was third with 275, while Canadians Al Johnston of Montreal and Al Balding of Toronto won $221 and $10, respectively, for their scores of 284 and 286.

PEP BARONE, manager of Sonny Liston, said yesterday he would be glad to accept a match with Ingemar Johansson, former world heavyweight champion. Barone added that he had heard nothing directly of an offer reported to have been made by Edwin Ahlquist, Johansson's adviser, for a Johansson-Liston fight in Goteborg, Sweden.

Freedom Ahead Says Mac

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (Reuters) — Prime Minister Macmillan told a joint session of the West Indies Federal Senate and House of Representatives Monday he hoped the multi-island federation would become fully independent early next year.

Macmillan, greeted with loud applause, urged West Indians in all the island territories of the federation to compose their differences and reach agreement on the constitutional shape of the new state before their representatives go to London at the end of May to discuss the independence date with the British government.

Macmillan, on a 10-day visit to the Caribbean islands, is scheduled to go to Washington and Ottawa early next month.

Ghana Demands Force To Regain Congo 'Keys'

Prohibition for Indians 'Always Proves Futile'

KAMLOOPS (CP)—A brief calling for full liquor privileges for B.C. Indians will be presented to the provincial government sometime next month by the North American Indian Brotherhood.

Population and employment are two other problems to be contained in the brief, adopted at a convention of the brotherhood. The brief states that prohibition in both Indian and non-Indian civilizations has always proved to be futile. "The biggest problem facing the Indian in British Columbia today is liquor," states the brief. "Until restrictions are lifted in respect to alcohol, nothing concrete can be accomplished."

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Foreign Minister Ake Adjei of Ghana advocated Monday use of force by the UN to regain control of key points in the Congo.

If force is not used, Adjei said, the whole question of continuing the UN operation should be sent back to the Security Council for further consideration.

DEBATE ENDING

General Assembly president Frederick Boland served notice he will close the list Wednesday for debate on the Congo. The African powers immediately started work on a joint resolution.

"Matadi, Kitona, Banana and Ndjili airport, as well as other strategic areas, are considered by the UN command to be most vital for the successful and effective implementation of Security Council and General Assembly resolutions on the situation in the Congo," Adjei said.

"Therefore, the question is whether the UN should defend these places at all costs. In our view, the UN command should either be prepared to maintain these places and thus be effective or the whole matter of continued UN operation should be considered by the Security Council."

"It is our opinion that every effort should be made to bring home to those Congolese authorities who are bent on undermining the UN operations that they should put the supreme interest of the Congolese nation above all personal interests or personal considerations."

DAG OPPOSED

Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld's 18-nation Congo advisory committee has authorized use of force to retake key points, but Hammarskjöld is understood to oppose such action personally.

Growing support was reported among several delegations, some African, to summon the Security Council to issue firm orders on UN action in regard to "essential" areas.

VOTE DEMANDED

Adjei opposed the confederation plan evolved by Congolese political leaders and said the Congolese people must decide their government for themselves.

438 Million India's Total

NEW DELHI (UPI)—The government yesterday reported India has a population of approximately 438,000,000 people.

Home Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri said the figures, based on a 1961 census, represented a 21.49 per cent population increase in the last decade.

Housewife Reports Arson Bid

Complaint that someone had tried to burn her house down was laid with city police yesterday by Mrs. W. A. Smith, 1458 Begbie.

Mrs. Smith said someone rang her doorbell. When she answered it she saw a man running from her porch, on which was a rolled-up, flaming newspaper. The man ran toward Stadacona Park, she said. There was no damage to the porch.

More 'Protective' Laws for Labor?

By PETER BRUTON

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson warned yesterday the government would bring in further "protective measures" for trade unions if the CCF continued to create what he termed "internal dissension" in the B.C. labor movement.

The CCF immediately labelled this as a threat that more restrictive labor legislation will be introduced if the latest government moves fail to remove the New Party as a threat to Social Credit.

Mr. Peterson's warning came during a last-ditch effort on the part of the CCF opposition to delay controversial check-off legislation until next session.

The move was defeated by the government by a vote of 29 to 16, with the Liberals voting with the CCF.

Rattle-Dazzle

"I'm happy to see the Liberal party at last saying where it stands," said Premier Bennett in a rattle-dazzle defence of the labor legislation. "They are lined up 100 per cent with the socialist party. This is the division of political matters throughout this province."

The opposition took a different line.

"You are the ones that have driven unions into political action," said Randolph Harding (CCF—Kaslo-Slocan). "You are taking this political action because the government is the mouthpiece of big business."

'Down the Drain'

"You are going down the drain, Mr. Premier, as sure as the sun is in the sky today," he added. "You'd better have a good time in the next two or three years because you're never going to get back."

CCF Leader Robert Strachan moved that the legislature postpone third reading of Bill 42 for six months—in other words let the legislation die.

"Let the public determine what the impact of this bill will be on the province," he said. "It is obvious that even the minister isn't sure of the impact some of the sections of this bill will have on labor-management relations."

Liberal Leader Ray Perreault concurred.

Curbs on Some

"Bill 42 is not a good bill," he said. "Any legislation which places restrictions on one section of the community is not a good bill. This will not achieve the labor-management unity which is needed in B.C. at this time."

Premier Bennett said the labor legislation was "very fine" for the ordinary working man of the province.

"We think if we enact this legislation now we will leave the depths of the recession and start to climb out of it," said the premier.

End Recession

Gordon Dowling (CCF—Burnaby) said the bill was nothing short of political reprisal against the opposition so the government could "preserve itself in power."

The government had been

branded with political expediency he said.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner then arose to the defence, saying the opposition had not been prepared to deal with the bill on its merits but only on its political aspects.

'Deep Unrest'

There was "deep unrest" among bona fide trade union members over "the impending capture" of their ranks by a political party.

"No political party of this province... can do the trade union movement any good by the type of alliance under discussion in the country today," said Mr. Bonner. "Trade unions should be free from partisan politics... The government intention is that the rank and file members of the trade union should not be put upon by any political party."

Hanging for All

John Squire (CCF—Alberni) said the government's action towards labor was the same as "hanging everybody because someone was heard talking about a bank robbery."

"This is the biggest conception of camouflage I've ever met. I've ever encountered in

Hold Line On Logans—Growers

Saanich loganberry growers are being asked not to increase their acreage because of "over-production."

Herbert Bickford, president of the Saanich Fruit Growers Association, said output of the growers is flooding the market.

A decision was reached at a meeting of the association last week to begin advertising to make logans more popular among consumers on the Prairies.

A bonnet befitting the occasion is worn to meet the Easter bunny by Wendy Parsons, top Canadian baby model. As children grow as quickly as fashions change, sewing is a practical way of decking the pram set in fanciful headgear. Wendy wears an old-fashioned duster type bonnet made of polka-dotted dacron.

Easter Bonnet for Pram Row

Springtime to the poet may suggest love and youth! But to the tiniest female, springtime is synonymous with Easter bonnets!

However, on Pram Row, as well as on Fifth Avenue, an Easter bonnet should be more than just a hat. And, admittedly, any hat that qualifies as a "flight of fancy" can be a threat to the budget—unless Mother sews it herself. Actually, it is both practical and economical for mothers to sew their daughters' hats and bonnets. If a hat costs a trifle, who cares if the child grows as quickly as fashions change? As the greatest variant in children's headgear, the local sewing centre experts stress that careful measuring of the circumference of a child's head is the most

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I divorced my husband in 1958 because he said he wanted to marry another woman. Well, he didn't marry her and she left town six months ago.

We have three children who are crazy about their daddy. He comes to see them twice a week. Since he works nights (11 to 7 shift) he is free afternoons. He always comes to see the kids on week-days and shows up about 1 o'clock when he knows they're in school. He visits with me, and waits for them to come home.

My problem is this: I'm still in love with him and I melt when he turns on the charm. For the last three months I've been melting regularly. I know it's wrong but I don't know what to do about it. I'd love to remarry him but I'd die before I'd request it.

I can't tell him not to come over because he has visiting privileges. Please tell me what to do. —PUTTY IN HIS HANDS

Dear Putty: Ask your ex-husband to let you know in advance when he expects to drop in. A phone call will do. Invite a friend or neighbor to be on hand so you won't be alone with him. If he arrives unexpectedly tell him you must leave—and then do. So long as he's able to enjoy a husband's privileges on a "drop in" basis he'll never marry you. Since you can't resist his charms, your best bet is to keep the place "crowded."

Dear Ann Landers: Your column today caused me to do a slow burn. It was about the gal who let her sister borrow her mink stole. You said, "Most husbands couldn't care less whether their wives lend their wearing apparel." Speak for yourself, Kiddo. I'm a husband who cares plenty. I'd blow my top if my wife let her sister or anyone else borrow her mink stole. And it's not even mink—it's dyed squirrel. When a guy buys his wife feathers and trills he has a sense of pride about it. It's sort of a status symbol. It's an insult when a wife attaches so little importance to her fur stole that she'd lend it out as if it were an egg-beater. I'm mad —IN THE RED.

Dear Red: I was surprised at GORGE HOSPITAL. At the monthly meeting of the Gorge Road Hospital $104 was voted for china and $300 towards a deep freeze unit for the hospital. The following new members were inducted into the auxiliary: Mrs. E. Ash, Mrs. W. Bardur, Mrs. J. W. English, Mrs. H. Jackson, and Mrs. H. V. O. Reilly.

the number of men who share your possessive attitude toward their wives' glad rags. Apparently you fellows believe the expensively adorned wife is proof of your own material success. I haven't heard a sound from the guys who are up to their Adam's apple in debt because of the little woman's fancy taste.

Dear Ann Landers: The problem is my maiden aunt who comes to our house about twice a week. Although I'm only 15 I have a few ideas of my own, and I don't like it when she runs everyone down—especially my father.

My aunt keeps saying she could have married many men who were much better-looking and richer than Dad. She hints that Mom could have done a lot better if she had been fussier.

This aunt has a good paying job and seems to be satisfied with her life. Why does she criticize my folks so much? I get very irritated when she harps on this subject. How can I get her off of it? —PROUD DAUGHTER.

Dear Daughter: Your aunt is ashamed of her spinsterhood and tries to cover up by criticizing your mother and belittling your father. Tell her emphatically that you don't want to hear any more on the subject. Be just as blunt as she is.

B.C. Opera Players Present Verdi

"Force of Destiny" looks like being irresistible. The B.C. Opera Players are stepping up rehearsals and have welcomed Bette Bjoerling, the Swedish-American soprano from the Stockholm Opera with an international reputation.

She will sing the female lead role of Leonora in Verdi's opera, conducted by Gideon Grau at the Queen Elizabeth Theatre on April 5, 6, 7, and 8.

Four rehearsals a week is the schedule of the B.C. Opera Players who are presenting this opera in English. Joseph Balint will sing the role of Don Alvaro, Richard McDermid will sing Don Alvaro, Bob McLellan will sing Don Carlo, Alex Ustlmovich, artistic director for the group, will sing Padre Guardiano. The other twelve soloists are practising with the chorus under the direction of Gideon Grau, and the producer K. Wyndham Brown.

Bette Bjoerling, the "lovely woman with the beautiful voice," made her debut at Stockholm in 1947, and her performance as Amneris in "Aida" was a spectacular success. She soon became a leading soprano in the Swedish Royal Opera, and she married its leading tenor, Goesta Bjoerling, a member of a famous singing family. Bette and Goesta Bjoerling sang together in many Royal Opera productions, winning acclaim from the Swedish royal family, press and public. They toured Europe, including Russia, until the sudden death of Goesta two years ago, when Bette Bjoerling returned to her native U.S. There her reputation has grown in the concert hall, on stage, television and radio.

Alex Ustlmovich is the Art Director of "The Force of Destiny" as well as the bass soloist, and the producer is Kenneth Wyndham Brown. Kay Armstrong, the director of ballet and choreography, is bringing her dancers up to concert pitch and supervising costume fittings.

Commissioned by Russia's Imperial Theatre and first performed in St. Petersburg, "The Force of Destiny" was of Wagnerian length. A few cuts were essential, but the spirit and character of Verdi's original conception have been preserved. We shall identify and enjoy many scenes and arias that have remained popular favorites for many decades.

"The Force of Destiny" is the most ambitious production ever undertaken by the B.C. Opera Players. Their previous successes were Cavalleria Rusticana, Prince Igor and Faust, and the company of 100 with full orchestra are determined to do the opera full justice. Verdi's beautiful music varies from dramatic battle scenes to some of the finest religious arias ever composed. The scenery, costumes and action are colorful, and the dancing delightful.

Daffodil Frolic

Seventy-seventh birthday of Mrs. Ethel Moore was celebrated at the daffodil frolic held Saturday evening in McMoran's Seaview Room at Cordova Bay. In the family party with Mrs. Moore were Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. J. Kelly, Mrs. Ellene Silvester and Mr. F. Greenwood, Mr. and Mrs. J. Anderson and Mrs. Kathleen Tucker.

Members of No. 922 Squadron, Royal Canadian Navy, at Patricia Bay, in a party at the dance were Mr. and Mrs. D. Slader, Mr. and Mrs. C. Pomple, Mr. and Mrs. D. Strang, Mr. and Mrs. D. Filby, Mr. and Mrs. D. O'Halloran, Mr. and Mrs. J. Woods, Mr. and Mrs. E. Radies, Mr. and Mrs. G. Foster, of Vancouver.

In another party were Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Dickinson, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Norm Tapping, Commander and Mrs. Ian Young, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Ravenhill, Mr. and Mrs. John Jamay and Dr. and Mrs. David Philip.

A farewell party for Miss Pamela Fillingham included Mr. and Mrs. V. Bannister, Miss Mary Adam, Miss Marjorie Gordon, Mesars. John Bradshaw and Bob Fair.

Party tables were centred with golden yellow daffodils and wild lilies. Baskets of daffodils decorated the room, which was filled with guests who danced to the music of George Kraelling and his orchestra.

DO 'SLIMMING DIETS' AGE THE COMPLEXION?

Sometimes it happens! A low-fat diet, combined with a rushed modern life—outdoors in all weathers, indoors in overheated rooms—can lead to a condition of skin dryness. And from this may develop those worrying problems of harsh, flaky patches, little lines, crow's feet. What to do? Use POND'S SKIN CREAM. This famous cream contains Allantoin—a substance that floats off lifeless surface skin cells, speeds deep penetration of Pond's moisturizing lanolin. Dried-out, thirsty tissues in the skin's sub surface are re-vitalized, and, almost overnight, your complexion takes on a softer, smoother, younger look. Use POND'S SKIN CREAM regularly. Buy it in jar or tube, wherever cosmetics are sold.

How To Save Money—Save WOOLLEN too!

Sweaters and other knitted garments need special care if you want them to keep their original beauty. But there's no need for expensive dry cleaning—not when you use ZERO. Specially made to wash wool, Orlon and Banelon in cool, tepid or lukewarm water, now ZERO will give your knitted garments the finest possible care with no danger of shrinking or matting. Church Worker

Mrs. F. A. Lindsay Service Wednesday

Many Victorians have been saddened to learn of the death of Mrs. F. A. Lindsay, 3000 Rutland Road, after a prolonged illness, in St. Joseph's Hospital early Sunday morning.

Mrs. Lindsay was 81 and had lived in Victoria in her home in the Uplands for 32 years.

An active and busy woman for many charitable causes, Mrs. Lindsay had been predeceased by her husband in 1938.

Only three years ago Mrs. Lindsay retired from the board of directors of the YWCA after 20 years devoted service. She had been actively concerned in all phases of "YW" work and was for several years chairman of the finance committee.

Apart from her extensive work for both the Royal Jubilee and St. Joseph's hospitals, she was a staunch pillar of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church taking a deep interest in all phases of activity surrounding the church and was treasurer of the Women's Guild.

Many of her friends paid tribute to Mrs. Lindsay's work for the church.

"She didn't like what she did to be praised or rewarded. She was very faithful in whatever she did."

"She would often do the things no one else thought of, quietly donating linen, picking people up who had no transportation in her car to take them to church. She was so genuine in her affections. She would often help in the church kitchen and seemed to enjoy it. She never missed a Sunday, no matter how poor the weather was."

Mrs. Lindsay was born in Dundee, Scotland.

She is survived by two daughters, both in Victoria, Mrs. Harold Husband and Mrs. Nicholas Van Der Vliet; four grandchildren, Edward Van Der Vliet and Alix, Vicki and Lisa Husband.

Funeral service will be held at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Wednesday at 1.30 p.m. with Rev. J. L. W. McLean officiating. Interment will take place in the family plot at Royal Oak Burial Park.

The Roman denarius was a silver coin worth about 17 cents in terms of modern money.

Gulf Island Run Won't Be Stopped

Coast Ferries Ltd. service to the Gulf Islands and Sidney out of Steveston, on the main land, will be increased "if and when the necessity arises," a spokesman said yesterday.

O. H. New, managing director of the ferry company, said the recent announcement that Coast Ferries will shortly operate a ferry between Powell River and Comox had given rise to speculation that it would withdraw the Island Princess from the Gulf Islands service.

He said the new schedule, which recently dropped Ganges on Salt Spring Island from its ports of call and added Sidney, is giving improved service to Galliano, Mayne, Pender and Saturna. He added: "We have no intention of reducing this service in the foreseeable future."

Mr. New said that "at the present time and for some time past" the Gulf Islands enjoy far more service than is needed by water and added "all the ferries serving this area are carrying fractional loads most of the time." He said exceptions were on holiday weekends.

"It was for this reason that the Island Princess was withdrawn from the Ganges service," he said. Before the decision to pull out was made, Salt Spring Island, with a population of 3,000, was served by four ships with a combined capacity of over 800 passengers and some 88 automobiles.

Ferry Job Cracks Records

Records fell thick and fast during the completion of two restaurant additions on B.C. government ferries by Victoria Machinery Depot.

On the Mv. Sidney the tricky job of installing a prefabricated section weighing 60 tons and fitting out of galley and restaurant was completed last Wednesday, three days ahead of schedule.

On the second ship, Mv. Tsawwassen, VMD crews working around the clock last week easily beat the Friday midnight deadline for yard work. VMD general manager H. S. Hammill said last ditch of paint would be applied Tuesday, four days before the allotted time.

A Victoria woman returned home from work to an unpleasant surprise last night. Mrs. Belle Soule, 465 Kingston, found a wallet left on a table in her room had been emptied of $63.

Police said the door to the room had been forced.

Victoria is being asked to do its spring cleaning in the Inner Harbor in the spring instead of summer.

A meeting of Victoria Chamber of Commerce transportation and harbor group yesterday decided to ask the city to carry out its annual clean-up of the harbor before the Swiftsure Race, May 27.

B. C. Agricultural Association trophy will be presented to Grace Hahon of Saanichton Wednesday for her first prize calf in Saanich Holstein 4-H Calf Club show last fall.

Agriculture Minister Frank Richter will make the presentation at 2:30 p.m. in the new exhibition grounds at Colwood, said a spokesman for the agricultural group. The public is invited to attend.

The exhibition "California Design 7" reported closing on March 26, is on view at the Art Gallery until April 8.

One of the highest awards offered B.C. bagpipers, was won Sunday by Gordon Ross, 14, 2861 Rockwell, during the B.C. Pipers' Association annual competition in Vancouver.

The Colquitz Junior High School student won the award over at least 85 others competing.

Each year the MacIvor memorial trophy is presented to the piper with the highest number of aggregate points. He was playing in the junior amateur class.

Executive committee of the Victoria branch of the Canadian diabetes Association held a special meeting last night at St. Joseph's Hospital, during which the group's national medical director, Dr. W. R.

Fenby of Toronto spoke in connection with a national fund-raising appeal.

Goal from the Victoria area is $1,300, and contributions should be sent to the national office at 96 Bloor Street West, Toronto, a spokesman said. The appeal is being conducted from March 17 to 31.

Queen Scout certificates will be presented to 247 Scouts by Lieutenant-Governor George R. Pearkes at an investiture at Government House, April 6.

Scouts attending the ceremony will represent 35 communities of British Columbia and the Yukon.

Greater Victoria Scouts who qualified for the high award during 1959 are Trevor Anderson, David Barker, Douglas Cliff, Brian Dempsey, Bob Coffin, Justus Havelaar, John Magi, Ian Muir, Keith Mac-

Murchie, Gerald Palmer, Jim Stanley, Douglas St. Arnaud, John Stewart, Harold Sutton, Douglas Toole and Peter Westaway.

Roid McKel, 304 Goldstream, was last night elected president of Colwood and District Chamber of Commerce.

Others elected include Archibald Steel, vice-president; Harry Rouse, secretary-manager; Clem Cunningham, Cecil Burgess and Joseph McDiamid, representatives on the British Columbia Agricultural Association board of directors.

"Thrilling!" says Mrs. Bill Cullen

"I'm really thrilled with the new McCall's. It's breathtaking... the food, the fashions, the decorating ideas... everything just jumps from the pages and comes to life."

Garden Notes

Dwarf 150 Years Old

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

It is only in fairly recent years that we have thought of the dahlia as a dwarf bedding plant, but actually the dwarf dahlia has been known for more than 150 years. It is recorded that the botanist Von Humboldt discovered dwarf forms of Dahlia variabilis during his exploration of the Mexican foothills in the year 1803. In his field notes he refers to the plants "as being only five to six thumbs high"—probably between 15 and 18 inches tall.

Nobody paid much attention to these dwarfs at the time. It was of interest only to the botanists, indicating the possible scope of variation in the dahlia. The gardeners of the day were more interested in big flowers than little ones.

Very little was heard of the dwarf dahlia until around 1917 when the first Coltness type appeared. Nobody seems to know just where the thing came from, but it is generally accepted that it turned up as a self-sown seedling in a patch of larger types. Unlike any of the other dahlia, it was found that the Coltness kinds would come fairly true from seed and so it became the progenitor of quite a few useful bedding dahlias. In light of the current political situation it is interesting to note that one of the early kinds, a crimson dwarf with bronzy-purple foliage, was called Congo Belge.

Most of the early dwarfs were singles averaging about two feet in height and included the sunny Shirley Yellow, the prettily blended cream and pink Mrs. W. Clark, the cheerful rosy pink Lady Eileen and many others.

It is difficult to find two gardeners who agree on the ideal height for a bedding dahlia—in any case, we don't have too much choice. While there are dahlia varieties only a few inches tall, these are not generally available and most of the tubers sold hereabouts as bedding dahlias run about 18 inches tall.

Yellow Cheer is one of the best of these, with fully double blooms a good six inches across—pretty big for a dwarf. Another good double is New Fun, in salmon apricot. Allard Stevens is a single-flowered orange-scarlet, just about the first dahlia to bloom and the last to pack up. Irene is a deep golden yellow, single-flowered and very early, while Mary Jose is a slightly taller single, about 2½ feet in height, bearing large mauve-pink daisy-like blooms with golden centres.

Tubers of the very dwarf dahlias seem to be rather hard to come by, but seeds are readily available and the plants are quite easy to raise. Two grand kinds, standing only 12 inches in height, are Unwin's Ideal Bedder, with beautifully quilled flowers, and Unwin's Reselected, an improved strain of semi-double flowers. Seeds are available only in mixed colors.

The present-day Coltness dahlias stand about 18 inches tall and bear single flowers, and seeds of this race can be bought by color, including scarlet, crimson, rose, yellow and white. Queen of the Moorland is a startling and unique dahlia in that the leaves are black, believe it or not. The plants are neat and compact, standing 1½ feet in height, and the flowers are fully double, in mixed colors.

While these dwarf dahlias were bred primarily to provide color in the garden, they are unsurpassed as cut flowers and it is our practice to grow a couple of rows of them in our vegetable plot for the sole purpose of providing cut flowers for the house. Given plenty of water and hard cutting, the plants just bloom their heads off, keeping our vases and bowls filled from July until October.

Hollywood Today

By Sheila Graham

Vivien Honeymoon-Bound

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—There will be two honeymoons soon in the Vivien Leigh household—her own with actor John Merivale, and her chauffeur's, to a boiler-maker's daughter, in London. Vivien has bought a fine home in the country where she will live after her round-the-world acting tour.

Robert Mitchum is the actor most likely to play the psychopathic killer in Gregory Peck's "Cape Fear."

Flipping through the "best American short stories of 1960," I found one by Arthur Miller, playwright ex-maté of Marilyn Monroe, titled, "I Don't Need You Any More." Somewhat prophetic!

Joan Collins, brunette British actress who has been more on suspension than off during her contract at 20th Century-Fox, has gone the whole way and called it quits with the studio. As of going to press Joan is still in London with fiance Warren Beatty, hoping to marry him soon and hoping to land a good role one of these fine days. She might have been up for an Oscar right now but for refusing the role in "Sons and Lovers" that won an Academy nomination for blonde Mary Ure.

Steve Forrest, handsome actor-brother of Dana Andrews, has "Gone Hollywood"—added a swimming pool to his Bel Air home from his profits as Elvis Presley's brother in "Flaming Star."

It used to be TV that gave new talent to Hollywood movies. Now it's the record companies which are supplying the new young faces. Sixteen-year-old Brenda Lee debuts for 20th-Fox in "Two Little Bears." Bob Newhart makes his first film for Paramount—"Hell is for Heroes." Guitarist Duane Eddy breaks the acting ice in Metro's

"Thunder of Drums." And currently toiling in movies are Bobby Darin, Fabian, Frankie Avalon, Bobby Rydell and Bobby Vee.

"No more plays," says Sir Alec Guinness, who is now in Hollywood to co-star with Rosalind Russell in "A Majority of One." I've heard actors say this sort of thing many times, but they usually come back. In the case of Sir Alec, I hope so.

Stewart Granger has found love again—in Rome, where he has been starring in "Sodom and Gomorrah." He is still fairly bitter about the divorce from Jean Simmons, which seems to have been a surprise to him. Their big ranch in Arizona is still on the market. In the divorce settlement, its proceeds go to Granger.

Mariene Dietrich returns to Hollywood April 4 for her role in "Judgment at Nuremberg." The only other lady in the cast, Judy Garland, has completed her part and is rehearsing for her Carnegie Hall concert.

A new Westmore—the 11th—is in the movie makeup business—Young Michael Westmore, recently graduated from Santa Barbara College. Cousin Bud, in charge of makeup at Universal, has taken Mike under his wing. And he's doing well—assisting on the face jobs of Doris Day, Rock Hudson and Tony Randall in "Love Come Back." That's sort of starting at the top.

Richard Burton, in New York, has been playing King Arthur in "Camelot" with a temperature of 103. Some stars have to be carried, literally, off stage before yielding to illness. But Richard finally gave in and went home. ... Ethel Merman never gives up; neither would the late Gertrude Lawrence.

Chinese in Control

Malays Fearful

No Scars on Singapore

By KEN MacTAGGART

SINGAPORE (TNS)—Just 19 years ago strutting Jap troops marched down Orchard Road in their conquest of this island fortress, a major prize in their drive to free Asia of "white dog" domination.

Today Orchard Road, Singapore's gleaming "automobile row," is the showplace of Southeast Asia's busiest business and booming metropolis, a wide thoroughfare of enormous, ultra-modern motor showrooms and office buildings.

No scars of war are visible; the city was evacuated while 200 volunteers died to a man holding the causeway to mainland Malaya. But the signs of peace are plenty; everywhere Japanese wares are on sale in the shops, besides those of Britain, Canada, Germany and even mainland China. And last year Singapore was the second busiest port in the world in terms of total tonnage handled.

Yet even here there is political crisis, an apparent affliction of all Southeast Asian lands, and until it is resolved the influence of this stable British area is weakened. Its cause is the penetration of busy, commerce-dominated Indonesia, just as they dominate Indonesia's commerce and have caused discriminatory laws there to restrict their further advances.

But in Singapore the Chinese are Singapore. They form 80 per cent of the total population, predominate in the legislature and government, hold the prime ministry, and reveal their serious citizenship in the best operated, most stable state in Southeast Asia. At the centre of a circle which number Djakarta, Saigon and Bangkok around its rim, there is the difference of night and day between Singapore and the others.

Where the political crisis arises is that Singapore, the great port of Malaya, is not of Malaya. In the shuffles of nationalism that followed the war, and the emergence of new independent state, Malaya and the port at the toe of its slender peninsula, both ended up independent. It was as if Montreal Island became independent of Canada which also became independent.

Only 242 square miles in area, the city is a small state, joined at Johore Bahru to Malaya by a man-made causeway. More than 1,500,000 people live in Singapore; another 6,000,000 in Malaya. Of the latter, about 40 per cent are Chinese, though, like Singapore, many are of several generations distant from the homeland.

Malaya, enormously rich in rubber, is booming, with a stable government dominated by Malays. The latter fear union with Singapore will mean Chinese vigor and ingenuity will dominate the entire state. The Chinese of Singapore are jealous of their position; they wish no domination by Malays.

The sole cure, most thinkers feel, is recognition by all sides that a Malaysian (not Malay) nationalism must develop. Intellectuals now are preaching this theme; a few political leaders have joined them. And, behind the scenes, Britain, is quietly working to achieve position; they wish no domination by Malays.

Crisis in Making Despite Prosperity

The sole cure, most thinkers feel, is recognition by all sides that a Malaysian (not Malay) nationalism must develop. Intellectuals now are preaching this theme; a few political leaders have joined them. And, behind the scenes, Britain, is quietly working to achieve

Tummy turmoil on eat-and-run days?

Probably—but you don't have to suffer heartburn or acid indigestion! Not when you keep TUMS handy. Just eat one or two of these mild, minty tablets—no water or glass needed—and get fast relief from stomach discomfort. No after-taste with TUMS. Take TUMS any time, any place. Carry a roll in your purse or pocket. And TUMS cost so little.

this end, Britain, to both little states, has about the same relationship as with Canada, but British influence is very strong.

When and if that occurs, and most people are confident it will come before too long, the influence of Malaya-Singapore will increase enormously because it will mean that a huge "outland" Chinese population has signified its union with freedom and not the mainland home.

Students Hesitate to Talk

Race Bias Charged At Maritimes School

HALIFAX (CP) — Foreign group founded on university of Halifax are by nature of racial prejudice. The largest university say they are running into discrimination but feel it will become less of a problem in the future. Meanwhile, they are hesitant to talk about it.

"We won't accomplish anything in the future by bringing up old misunderstandings," said one Dalhousie University student from the West Indies. "I suppose I've run into as much trouble as anyone else at Dal, but what good will it do me to talk about it? Will it change the color of my skin?"

The International Students Association was formed recently to replace an organization called Friendly Relations with Overseas Students, a

Messages Still Sent For Spies

LONDON (AP) — The Russians were reported yesterday still beaming coded instructions to intelligence agents in Britain despite the recent crackdown on a Soviet spy ring.

The London Observer said radio signals from a station near Moscow had been intercepted during the weekend.

The newspaper said the signals apparently were intended for agents in the London area and originated from the same station which formerly beamed orders to Peter and Helen Kroger, the American couple jailed for terms of 20 years each in the British spy trial which ended Wednesday.

In the trial, sentences totaling 95 years were imposed on a spy ring of five persons, headed by Gordon A. Lonsdale. The government said Lonsdale was a Russian operating under a false Canadian identity, and that the ring stole secret details of the British atomic submarine Dreadnaught which was built with the help of American blueprints.

Installs Pay Phone

No Free Telephone Calls From Millionaire's Home

LONDON (AP) — Paul Getty, one of the world's richest and most prudent men, said yesterday he has installed a pay telephone in his stately English mansion.

"People are funny about telephones," said the American super-millionaire. "They'll come as guests and make long distance telephone calls all over the world."

When you speak to them about it, they look surprised and say:

"I spoke 30 minutes." Why, it's impossible. It couldn't have been more than three minutes."

Getty said that guests are not the main problem, however.

"I've got some splendid servants now," he explained. "but in the past, well, er, some of them were calling up relatives in Scotland and talking and talking. That all went on my bill."

Speaking in his slow Oklahoma drawl, he added:

"And then there's the question of workmen. We have a lot of them at Sutton Place. They're always calling relatives and friends in London."

Sutton Place, south of London, is one of England's most beautiful homes. Getty is said to have paid about $2,500,000 to buy it from the Duke of Sutherland.

"A call in London costs one and three" (18 cents), said

BIG GEORGE! by Virgil Partch

"He thinks it makes him look more mature."

Electric Heart Life for Billy

TORONTO (CP) — On the fifth floor of the Hospital for Sick Children a tiny pulsing light is evidence of the heart of the "electric heart" of five-year-old Billy Maxwell.

The light, on a gadget the size of a small transistor radio, flashes 90 times a minute. The gadget, strapped to Billy's side, is balance for his hoister and six-shooter.

PACEMAKER

"That's my pacemaker," he said pointing to it proudly. Leading from it are two tiny wires that pass under his shirt and through the skin of his abdomen to his heart which requires electrical impulses to prompt a steady beat.

Two years ago doctors repaired a hole in his heart but it has a faltering beat and has stopped for brief periods.

With the help of the battery gadget Billy is one of the most active patients in the hospital's Catholic Children's Aid Society ward.

Soon the three tiny batteries and transistors will be planted under his skin and there, with periodic renewals, will likely remain for the rest of his life.

Periodically doctors will have to check Billy's pulse.

LOSE POWER

The power pack is so designed that, as the batteries lose power—about every three or four years—his pulse will gradually creep up from 90 to 100 or 110 a minute. A simple operation will replace the batteries.

Billy is the first case of this kind in Canada.

World's Largest Vast Telescope Will Peer Deep Into Space

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters) — The biggest radio telescope in the world—20 times larger than that at Jodrell Bank, England—will be in operation somewhere in New South Wales by the end of 1962.

This new $670,000 telescope will peer farther into space than any radio or optical eye yet constructed.

NOT COMPLETED

The project was announced by Professor Harry Messel, head of the University of Sydney's school of physics, who said that although the design of the new telescope has not been completed, its broad specifications have been decided.

The telescope was designed by a 40-year-old Australian, Professor Bernard Mills, and has been named "the Mills Cross" in his honor. Messel claims it will make Australia one of the two major world centres for radio astronomy.

AERIAL ARMS

Messel said that the Mills Cross will have two aerial "arms" forming a right-angle cross in north-south, east-west form. Each arm will be 40 feet wide and a mile long, and each will consist of a parabolic reflecting mesh which will collect radio signals from space and focus them on to an aerial running along the centre of each arm.

Data from incoming radio waves will be analyzed by an electronic computer.

"The telescope will enable us to hear what is happening almost at the edge of the universe," he says.

Explaining that the world now can listen to what is happening in space 15,000,000 light years away, Dr. Mills added:

"The new telescope will give us information from a distance of 30,000,000,000 light years, the natural limit of observation. Modern scientific knowledge does not admit the possibility of seeing any farther."

One light year is the distance light travels in one year going at a speed of 186,000 miles a second.

Foothills of Andes

Human Sacrifice Still Takes Place

MONTREAL (CP) — Human sacrifice still takes place in the remote foothills of the Andes, says a specialist on the customs of the South American Indian.

Dr. Jehan Vellard, a physician and anthropologist from Lima, Peru, said an Indian mother and her baby were sacrificed during one of Chile's frequent earthquakes last fall.

Most South American Indians believe in one god but feel that he is remote, he said. They make sacrifices, both human and animals, to various intermediate deities visualized in such forms as water sprites and forest fairies.

Dr. Vellard and his wife, a pediatrician, visited Montreal en route to Paris where they will lecture at the Sorbonne.

Husband Dies at Controls So Wife Crash-Lands Plane

BONNER SPRINGS, Kan. (AP) — "I brought the plane in, but I did a sloppy job," Mrs. Lloyd J. Frevert, 46, gave that explanation Sunday after she crash-landed a light plane in the first landing she ever tried.

Her husband, 47-year-old owner of a finance firm in Kansas City, Kan., had died of a heart attack and slumped against the controls, putting the plane into a dive from a height of 2,000 feet.

Mrs. Frevert and her son, William, 13, pulled Frevert's body away from the controls and she bounced the plane down into a pasture four miles southwest of Bonner Springs. A wheel was torn off as the plane slid to a halt.

Mrs. Frevert suffered a head injury and hospital attendants said her condition was serious. William escaped with bruises. Frevert had given his wife some flight training, but she hadn't made any landings.

'Tyranny, Bossdom'

Moslems Join Apartheid Fight

CAPE TOWN (Reuters)—Eight Moslem leaders and four prominent Moslem organizations in Cape Province, appealed to all members of their faith Monday to unite in the struggle against South Africa's apartheid.

Finns Join British

LONDON (AP)—Finland Monday formally signed as an associated member of the British-led European Free Trade Area, spreading the group's influence to the frontier with Russia.

The Finns received something short of full membership because of their most-favored-nation trade agreement with Russia.

The agreement bringing Finland into the EFTA is effective when the seven—Austria, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Portugal, Switzerland and Britain—have formally accepted.

This is the first time the Moslems have spoken out as a body against apartheid.

They said they no longer could tolerate "a system of tyranny and baaukap (bossdom) in which they were humiliated and deprived of their basic rights to earn, to learn and to worship freely according to the divine rule of Allah."

They pledged themselves to fight against all injustice and called on all Moslems to unite "to rid our beloved land of the forces of evil and tyranny."

The twister struck at the home of Jack Cordell near Shreveport, La. Cordell saw it coming and threw a mattress over his wife and two children. The funnel cloud rocked the house, causing $5,000 damage, but there were no injuries.

Nearly 100 aircraft were damaged at the Shreveport airport.

Thundershowers pelted flood-stricken southwest Wisconsin, where 400 persons fled their homes along the Kickapoo River. Gov. Gaylord Nelson proclaimed a state of emergency.

At least 500 were homeless at Charles City, Iowa, where a fourth of the city was inundated by the Cedar River, pouring six feet deep through the streets. Another 100 were evacuated at Mason City, where the Winnebago River went on the rampage.

Hurricane-force winds whipped across Illinois, injuring 10 persons. An ice jam knocked out a dam on usually peaceful Spring Brook near Anigo, Wis., covering the city with a foot of water.

Family in Stew

Unlucky Thirteen Get Break

KITCHENER (CP)—Fortune took a turn for the better Monday for the 13 members of the Clark family and they decided to settle down in this area.

Edward Clark, 42, and his oldest son found jobs with the same construction firm and now are looking for a house. Mr. and Mrs. Clark arrived here Saturday with their nine children, a grandchild and a widowed daughter-in-law who is pregnant. The family was packed into a broken-down station wagon with their food and possessions.

The Clarks set out from the Parry Sound area last week with the station wagon and a truck filled with furniture in the hope Mr. Clark could work on a farm here.

The truck broke down, 200 miles from Kitchener, but they continued, leaving their furniture at a farm and crowding into the station wagon. Waterloo township police were called in when the family was unable to pay a motel bill for Friday night.

The township police and welfare agencies combined efforts to house, clothe and feed the family during the week-end.

The station wagon was found to be unsafe and it will be scrapped.

A building contractor paid the motel bill.

Belgian Voters Discard Eyskens

BRUSSELS (UPI)—Social Christian Premier Gaston Eyskens resigned yesterday after suffering a stinging defeat in nationwide parliamentary elections. The move plunged Belgium into a new government crisis with no quick solution in sight.

Eyskens, who has headed a coalition cabinet of his own Social Christians (Catholics) and Liberals since June, 1958, handed his resignation to King Baudouin.

The king accepted it and asked the Eyskens government to stay on in a caretaker capacity until a new cabinet can be formed.

Eyskens' government was defeated largely on internal economic and political issues as well as deep national disappointment over the Congo disaster.

Eyskens blamed his downfall largely on his unpopular economic austerity program.

House to Sit Briefly In Fall, Bennett Says

A fall session of the legislature of one or two days' duration will be held this year, Premier Bennett said yesterday.

He said MLAs would gather here either in September or October to ratify changes in the present federal-provincial tax sharing agreement "but this will not mean an increase in taxation."

The premier added that members would be paid some allowance but that it would not be a full seasonal indemnity of $5,000.

He added that "present thinking" was for the session to ratify the tax agreement and then prorogue, but if the Columbia River financing arrangements needed to be approved by the legislature this would be done.

Firm Kennedy Stand May Ease Laos Issue

MAYOR MABEL ANDERSON

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy's firm stand on Laos appeared last night to be moving Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev toward acceptance of a peaceful solution of the civil war there.

It was understood that Soviet foreign minister Andrei Gromyko during his conference with Kennedy showed concern that the United States and its allies might take open action, presumably military, against the Soviet-backed rebel armies before hearing from the Kremlin.

Gromyko was said to have emphasized Russia's hope that the western powers would take no action, through SEATO or otherwise, until receiving Khrushchev's formal reply to the western peace proposal.

Kennedy was said to have

Asia Council Maps Moves

BANGKOK (Reuters)—The eight-nation Southeast Asia Treaty Organization went into secret session here this morning to map military measures against an attempted Communist takeover in Laos.

The proposed cease-fire has now emerged as the major bargaining point between Russia and the West. The United States and its allies are convinced Russia, which is supplying the Laotian rebels with large quantities of war materials, can call them off anytime she wishes.

Kennedy went into yesterday's meeting with the firm support of British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan with whom he reached "absolute agreement" at their Key West meeting Sunday on a tough stand on Laos.

FIRST STEP

The president, during his session with Gromyko at the White House, was understood to have emphasized repeatedly the importance of a cease-fire as the first step to any long-range political settlement.

Gromyko's appeal for the allies to await Khrushchev's reply, together with a Pravda article indicating some "give" in the Russian position, appeared to have eased tension somewhat, although matters were still considered critical.

PUT TO VOTE

Her ruling was challenged and Ald. Russell was named chairman of the meeting. The motion was put to a vote and a 10-9 vote was recorded.

Ald. Hamilton, Adjournment was moved immediately following the passage of the motion and aldermen fled silently out of the council chambers while Mayor Anderson protested that council had no authority to suspend city business.

DRAMATIC MOVE

The dramatic move came immediately after the opening prayer in which Mayor Anderson asked for guidance for the council in "the issues of life." There were about 30 spectators in the public gallery.

Mayor Anderson, after granting permission for Ald. Hamilton to speak on a matter of personal privilege, attempted to stop the speaker in mid-flow when she realized the intent of his motion.

She sternly rebuked him.

Cold War Tensions Red Summit Topic

MOSCOW (UPI)—Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev probably will assess tensions existing with the Kennedy administration at a European Communist summit meeting opening today in the Kremlin, observers said yesterday.

Laos, the Geneva nuclear test ban talks, disarmament, Premier Bekir Baluku came Germany and divided Berlin instead.

Also expected to be brought up at the closed-door meetings of the chiefs of the Warsaw Pact powers.

Only maverick Albania, the Adriatic state which ideologically follows the Communist China line more closely than the Soviet line, refrained from sending its chief of state. Vice-Premier Bekir Baluku came instead.

TIRED MLAs HEAD HOME AFTER BITTER SESSION

Carole Tregoff Breaks Down

Finch, Tregoff Guilty Death Penalty Sought

DR. R. BERNARD FINCH

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Dr. R. Bernard Finch Monday night was convicted of first-degree murder in the slaying of his wife. His former mistress, Carole Tregoff, was convicted of second-degree murder.

Both defendants also were convicted of conspiracy to commit murder, a capital offense. The prosecution said it will ask death in the gas chamber for both.

DEATH OR LIFE

The penalty for first-degree murder is death or life imprisonment; for second-degree, automatic five years to life.

Miss Tregoff, her long red hair streaming loosely over her shoulders, broke into tears at the verdict.

REACHED OVER

Finch, red-faced and tense, buried his face in his hands. Then he reached over and patted gently on the shoulder of the girl with whom he was accused of plotting the murder.

The prosecution charged that Finch and his one-time employee Miss Tregoff, planned the slaying after a hired killer failed to do the job.

AVOID SHARING

Prosecutors contend the couple wanted to avoid sharing Finch's estate with Mrs. Finch in a divorce settlement. For each defendant, the jury considered these verdicts:

1. Guilty of first-degree murder and/or conspiracy to commit murder. For either, the jury determines at a later hearing whether the penalty should be death in California's gas chamber or life imprisonment.
2. Guilty of second-degree murder, with an automatic sentence of five years to life in prison.
3. Acquittal.

CAME TO VOTE

The national council of the CCF, meeting Thursday and Friday before the New Party committee sessions, indicated that Western Canada and Quebec still favor leaving NATO.

FINAL POLICY

A small subcommittee headed by Toronto lawyer David Lewis, national CCF president, has been given the job of putting together a final policy statement to go before the convention. His subcommittee numbers about eight persons drawn from the sponsoring CCF, Canadian Labor Congress and other interested parties.

The CCF national convention at Regina last year—with strong rank-and-file pressure at work—moved to quit the North Atlantic alliance. The executive council of the CLC last June backed NATO.

Allies Block German Bid

LONDON (AP)—West Germany's allies have blocked for the present Bonn's request to build larger warships, diplomats said Monday night.

Legislature Prorogues

Wearied legislators headed towards home last night after Lieutenant-Governor George R. Pearkes prorogued the House to bring to an end one of the stormiest and most sensational sessions of the B.C. legislature in recent years.

Final business was wrapped up quickly after the three House leaders—Premier Bennett, CCF leader Robert Strachan, and Liberal leader Ray Perrault—agreed to prorogue the House at 5 p.m.

It was a strenuous 44-day session, marked by six post-midnight sittings and by bitter battles over labor legislation and the highways and health departments.

The first session of the 26th Legislative Assembly began Jan. 26.

It will be remembered for many things, perhaps mostly for its hours of work.

The 52 members—32 Social Credit, 16 CCF and four Liberal—sat through Saturday afternoon and Friday night sittings which House veterans said they believed were unprecedented in B.C.

They sat through 18 night sittings, four times continuing through most of the night and once going 11 hours, adjourning at 7:05 a.m.

Seven Days Longer

The session ran seven days longer than that of 1960. Among bills passed, the most significant included:

Three-cent-a-gallon increase in the gasoline and motive diesel fuel taxes, bringing them to 13 and 15 cents a gallon, respectively.

Labor Relations Act amendments in which political contributions from union dues is forbidden under penalty of fines and loss of salary check-off privileges.

Education policy changes under which Grade 7 is moved back to the elementary school level and the financial formula for operating costs of schools is altered extensively.

An act to exempt the Pacific Northern Railway from the Public Utilities Act under which it would have had to detail its building and financing plans before public hearings.

An act to allow the province to advance up to $3,000,000 to the publicly-owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway in lieu of a federal grant which Ottawa has said it never promised to pay.

An anti-discrimination act forbidding racial discrimination in public accommodation.

And an act under which government agencies, municipal councils, hospital and school boards and universities in B.C. must make an annual financial statement detailing all spending, including salary lists.

Explosive Issues

Many explosive issues arose, generally centred around labor legislation, social welfare policies of the government, the health department's refusal to table a report on mental health services and the highways department and Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi.

During the last two weeks, tempers frayed and noisy, bitter outbursts punctuated most late-night sittings.

Once, as the opposition questioned the health minister for five hours trying to get him to table the mental health report, Premier W. A. C. Bennett attempted to invoke closure of debate.

The scene that followed was one of the wildest and most bitter here as the opposition accused the premier of disgraceful and disgusting conduct.

That the premier failed—his motion was ruled out of order because he didn't have the floor when he moved it—could be laid to the hour and the anger of the moment. It came after midnight during the third all-night sitting of last week.

The CCF party's determined opposition to the labor legislation carried the House through two all-night sittings. Its attack on social welfare policies resulted in another.

From the start, the session appeared to be in a fighting mood and it ended on the same note.

Lively Opening

On opening day, with 600 persons filling the galleries and crowding the floor of the chamber, Opposition leader Robert Strachan demanded a ruling from the Speaker on eligibility of Mr. Gagliardi to sit in view of a contempt of court conviction a few months earlier. Mr. Strachan also entered a motion to start an immediate debate on unemployment.

He was successful in neither. The Speaker ruling his position was not competent to decide the question on Mr. Gagliardi, with the house defeating the unemployment motion.

But both came up later. The government majority defeated a CCF no-confidence motion raised against Mr. Gagliardi.

And another attempt at a special debate on unemployment was ruled out of order on a day when more than 1,500 unemployed persons marched on the legislative buildings, crammed the corridors and filled the public galleries in the chamber.

A stormy battle erupted when the impartiality of the deputy speaker, Alex Mathew (SC—Vancouver Centre) was questioned. The Opposition raised the issue when Mr. Mathew took the chair in debate on labor legislation. They said he had signed a letter to a newspaper as deputy speaker and in it had defended the legislation.

Socreds Spent $280,438

Social Credit's central committee spent a whopping $280,438 in last September's provincial election campaign compared to $29,872 spent by the CCF.

Social Credit elected 32 members, the CCF 16.

The election expenses of the various party central committees were itemized in an answer by Provincial Secretary Wesley D. Black to a question on the order paper by Gordon Dowding (CCF—Burnaby).

Most surprising item: The expenses of individual candidates of the various parties.

servatives, who failed to elect a single member, spent $106,633.

The Liberals, who elected four MLAs, spent $36,737 and the Communists, who elected none, spent $4,833.

These figures do not include the expenses of individual candidates of the various parties.

Toe Blake Misses Suspension

Montreal Coach Fined Record $2,000

Montreal's beleaguered Canadiens will have their coach for the balance of the Stanley Cup playoffs but Toe Blake became $2,000 poorer yesterday when he was slapped with a record fine for hitting referee Dalton McCarthy following Sunday's 2-1 overtime defeat in Chicago.

The fine was announced last night by Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, after he had interviewed the concerned parties.

It is the stiffest fine ever imposed on a player or coach, and the maximum permitted by league bylaws. Campbell could also have imposed a suspension but Blake's excellent previous conduct, he said, was in his favor.

NO HELP

Campbell added that the fine must be paid by Blake personally without outside help such as might come from the club or Montreal fans.

The contrite Blake said he would not appeal to the league's board of governors as he is right.

"It's a stiff fine," he said.

"But I think I'm lucky that there was no suspension. So many things built up to this, such as penalties and disallowed goals, but I know I did something wrong. At the same time, I still feel that penalty to Dickie Moore was wrong."

He referred to the penalty given Moore in the third overtime period for allegedly tripping Eddie Litzenberger. Moore was hardly comfortable in the penalty box before Murray Balfour's second goal broke up the game and gave the Black Hawks a 2-1 series lead.

In the second overtime period, Don Marshall deflected a shot past Chicago goalkeeper Glenn Hall but McCarthy ruled that Marshall's stick had been over his head.

Canadiens protested heatedly and when Moore's protested penalty resulted in the winning goal, Blake walked across in ice in blind anger and took a swing at McCarthy.

It was first reported that his aim was bad, and Blake denied that he had connected. He later amended this to state he thought he had hit McCarthy on the shoulder.

Campbell, who was in attendance at the game, didn't agree.

"The blow caught McCarthy on the cheekbone," Campbell said, "and his face was roughened and red."

Campbell added, somewhat incongruously, that "there was nothing vicious about the attack and that no injury resulted."

TOE BLAKE

Canyens Lose Geoffrion; Leafs Go Without Kelly

Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs, the two clubs who were supposed to meet in the Stanley Cup final, are going to have to be all they were supposed to be if that meeting is ever to come up.

Both trailing, 2-1, in their semi-final series after losing their second in a row on Sunday night, they find themselves on foreign ice for tonight's crucial games. And both will be without key players.

Canadiens, battered and bruised by the bigger and extremely aggressive Hawks, may have to complete the series without Bernie Geoffrion, their spark-plug forward. And the Leafs learned for certain yesterday that centre Red Kelly is not yet ready to play and may also be out for all of the semi-finals.

MAY BE SERIOUS

The injury-prone Geoffrion twisted a knee early in Sunday's 2-1 overtime loss to the Hawks. Cartilage complications are feared and it is quite possible Geoffrion may have to sit out for a week or more.

That Geoffrion and Kelly may be needed was shown Sunday when the Detroit Red Wings blanked the Leafs, 2-0. In Detroit and the Hawks took the Canadiens, 2-1, after 52 minutes and 12 seconds of overtime.

VETS DO IT

Gordie Howe, proving that he is still as great as ever at 32, led the Wings to their win with some fine help from Terry Sawchuk, who, also 32, is still the peer of goalkeepers when he is right.

Tonight's game between Montreal and Chicago will be televised on channels 3 and 6 at 7 p.m.

Cougar Coach Cracks Whip On Eve of Important Game

"If we can't win our way into the playoffs I'd just about as soon not be in them."

It was George Agar talking, and there was no doubt but that the coach of the Victoria Cougars was in no frame of mind to be fooling about tonight's important game against Edmonton Flyers or to be leaving that his club has that last Western Hockey League playoff spot clinched.

Agar wasn't at all happy yesterday. He had his club out on Memorial Arena ice for a stiff and prolonged workout shortly after its return from Portland and announced that it would get more of the same this morning.

There was no disguising the fact that what he had seen in two weekend setbacks convinced him that several of his players weren't doing all they could be doing towards winning a playoff spot. And Agar, who was a tough competitor as a player, will take little pride in it if his club backs into post-season play.

"That's what we've been doing," he snorted. "If Edmonton hadn't lost a couple of games in overtime the Flyers would have been able to tie us by winning tonight."

LINEUP CHANGE

Agar said that he would play Ed Lawson, one of the two juniors he has standing by, in tonight's game and that he might also include Don Makow in the lineup.

Either Jim Moro or Bert Fizzell will sit it out tonight and if both Lawson and Makow play, both Moro and Fizzell will watch from the stands.

Whoever plays, it looks as if tonight's might be quite a game. If the Cougars can be stung, they'll be trying to take out the hurt on the Flyers and the Edmonton club this morning.

Card Star Injured In Freak Accident

St. Louis Cardinals suffered a staggering blow Monday when pitcher Larry Jackson suffered a fractured jaw when he was hit in the face by the fragment of a bat.

The mishap occurred in the sixth inning of a game against Los Angeles Dodgers at Vero Beach, Fla.

Duke Snider swung at one of Jackson's pitches, got a piece of the ball and it went for a single. But Snider's bat split and a fragment of it sailed out to the pitcher's mound and struck Jackson, an 18-game winner last year.

Jackson was taken to a hospital. Officials could not say how long he would be lost to the Cards.

Warriors Delay Calgary Clincher

WINNIPEG — Winnipeg Warriors, long since out of the Western Hockey League playoff picture and with only the slimmest chance of avoiding anything better than a last-place finish, played last night as if the league title was at stake.

Cheered on by one of the better Winnipeg crowds of the season, they prevented Calgary Stampede from clinching the championship by scoring a 4-3 overtime win.

Warriors tied it up when Gordie Labossiere scored with 34 seconds left and his club playing six attackers. Then rookie Howie Hughes won it in the sixth extra minute to make it three wins in a row.

Winnipeg Warriors clinched the Western Hockey League championship by defeating Calgary Stampede 4-3 in overtime.

The Warriors, who had been out of the playoff picture for some time, managed to pull off a surprising victory in front of a large home crowd.

Calgary Stampede, who had been leading the series, were unable to score in overtime.

The victory gives the Warriors a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven series.

The next game will be played in Winnipeg on Saturday night.

The Warriors are now the favorites to win the league title.

The Calgary Stampede are now the underdogs.

AT THE 19th With Harry Young

Most think that Art Donaldson is again the man to beat in the Island Open match play championship.

Big Art shot a comfortable qualifying 74 to show he is making a good recovery from the fractured ribs which had threatened to keep him out of the competition.

What made his performance more impressive was the fact that he was two under par after 14 holes, missed the medal by getting four bogeys on to fight hard to get into the final.

For a change, the pros had to fight hard to get into the final. Those who did include Laurie Carroll, first of the pros to win the event. He had a 73. Ron MacLeod, the 1959 runner-up, Roy Campbell and Norm Boden all made the top 32 but Colwood's Bill Court, Mel Carlow, assistant pro at George Vale, and Mel Evans, pro at Cowichan, didn't make it.

Considering that weather conditions were perfect and that the Gorge Vale course was in good shape for this time of the year, the scoring in the qualifying round was disappointing. All who could shoot 80 or better got a chance at the open championship.

It was a very easy path to the title for Donaldson. He will have to be on his game from the start. He starts off against Joe Briggs in the top half of the draw, meets the winner of Chappell and Al Reside in the second round. His third-round opponent figures to be either medalist Bill Wakeham or Dr. George Bigelow, who meet in the first round.

Also in the top half of the draw are John Merriman and Laurie Kerr. In the bottom half, Dick Mann plays Norm Boden in the first round. Others in the bottom half who may be watching are Carroll and George Andrews.

Application forms for golf tuition lessons are being made available to students at senior and junior high schools in the Greater Victoria area. The lessons, to be given by district pros, will start after the Easter holidays. Registration fee is one dollar.

A competition at the end of the course of lessons will be open to all who attend the classes.

In addition to this course, the Victoria District Golf Committee is hoping this year to provide advance lessons for a selected number of junior players who are members of district clubs. The idea is to give assistance to those youngsters who wish to compete in city and provincial title meets and to try for a place on the provincial junior team.

Losers Make Farce of Game In Commercial Playdowns

Commercial hockey, which drew fans in ever-increasing numbers during the regular season, is apparently determined to drive them away in the playoffs.

They took another large step in that direction at Memorial Arena last night, when a crowd of 1,000 watched Pattersons and Navy battle through three periods to a 4-4 tie, only to have Pats turn the game into a farce in overtime as Navy won, 5-4.

THROW IN TOWEL

Pats claimed Navy's third-period goals by Cliff Uhren and Joe Tanner were scored with Navy players in the goal-crease. When their protests were disallowed, and John Morris scored the first goal of the 10-minute overtime session for Navy, Pats quit.

When Navy's Dave Woodruff shot from the blue line, Pattersons' goalie George Hall stepped aside and guided the puck into the net. Morris came in on him minutes later, and Hall stepped aside to let him shoot on the empty net. Ron Cook got the final Navy goal against no opposition.

LIKELY TO LOSE

Pattersons have protested the game, but aren't expected to get anywhere since the calls they are protesting against are the judgment of the referee.

The Sailors also did their bit to add to the uproar. Navy won the first game, 7-3, but lost the second in the best-of-five final, 7-4. They protested the loss on the grounds that Pats used an ineligible player.

The league upheld the protest and declared the game must be replayed. That didn't satisfy the Sailors, who have filed an appeal to the B.C. Amateur Hockey Association, claiming the game should have been awarded to them.

If the appeal is upheld, and Pats' protest last night is waived, the series is over. Otherwise the next game will be played Thursday at 8:30.

It was a silly ending to what had been the finest game of the season. Pattersons came from behind twice, only to lose their lead in the third period as Navy scored two goals on power plays.

Move to Downtown Seen as Solution For Museum Costs

Moving to a downtown location where it would attract more tourists was described yesterday as the "most practical" solution to financial troubles besetting the B.C. Maritime Museum.

Commodore H. V. W. Groos, chairman of the museum board of directors, said yesterday a "very substantial" increase in the number of paying visitors is needed to keep the project afloat.

EARLIER STATEMENT

He was commenting on an earlier statement by a member of the museum board, former curator E. A. MacFayden, that there was nothing to be gained by a move downtown and that a loss in historical naval associations would result.

Commodore Groos said yesterday the museum can now go no further without an annual income of approximately $10,000, adding, "In fact, without this income, the museum will quickly lose ground."

After a search for ways of improving the financial outlook, the chairman said the only possible solution appeared to make the museum pay its own way.

"There are several alternatives," said Commodore Groos, "but the most practicable one is to move the museum into the centre of Victoria where the greatest number of tourists congregates."

The commodore said the museum board "much appreciates" Reeves Wurtel's (Esquimalt) very generous offer of the magnificent site in Rock Heights Park, Esquimalt.

"It does appear, however, that the prospects of raising funds to construct a maritime museum building as well as sufficient regular income to pay staff and maintain the premises, are completely out of the question, at least in the foreseeable future."

Door-to-Door Mail Set for Royal Oak

Door-to-door mail deliveries will begin in Royal Oak soon.

Start of the letter carrier service will also signal the end to an annoyance which has plagued residents for years.

The service will be included in the four-cent city postal zone.

Some 400 houses and about 12 stores are included in the area chosen by post office officials. Many Victoria firms send mail to Royal Oak residents with four-cent stamps on them and residents have to pay two extra cents postage on each letter.

Victoria post office officials hope to have the service in operation by June.

The service will begin when at least 80 per cent of the residents provide mail boxes at their front gates.

Post office officials in Ottawa are considering extending similar services to Cordova Bay.

Hips Trimmed, Fat Melted At Cowichan Fitness Class

DUNCAN—If there are any gals in the Cowichan district having trouble with their waists, they should consider joining the women's keep-fit night classes at Cowichan High School in the fall.

Between them, they lost a total of 44 pounds, took 12 inches from hips, 14 inches from waists and 12 miscellaneous inches from upper arms, thighs and calves.

Enthusiasm with the flattering results, the women have asked that next year the period of keep-fit exercises be followed by a games session with a limited time for folk and square dancing.

Miner Held for Sentence

Criminal Neglect Found in Deaths

Brothers Pinned In Crash

William John Stewart, 47-year-old unemployed hard-rock miner living on Kemp Lake Road in Sooke, yesterday was found guilty by an assize court jury of criminally negligent driving.

Mr. Justice David Verchere remanded accused in custody for sentence at a later date.

BROTHERS KILLED

Stewart was charged following an accident in the early hours of last Oct. 21, in which Jack LeRoy Cameron and his brother Tom Cameron, both of Colwood, were killed almost instantly.

STRUCK FRONT

The brothers were standing between a wrecker and another car, about to fasten the two together, when a car driven by Stewart struck the front of the wrecker, pinning the Camerons between the vehicles.

HEARD ARGUMENT

Yesterday morning the jury heard argument by defence counsel James J. Proudfoot and crown prosecutor Lloyd G. McKenzie, and an address by Mr. Justice Verchere. The jury retired shortly after 1 p.m. for lunch and to consider their verdict, and returned about 3:20 p.m.

DINEREGARD

They had been told by Mr. Justice Verchere that, to convict, they must be satisfied that the driving of accused at the time of the accident showed "wantonly or recklessly disregard for the lives and safety of others"—a factor necessary to prove criminal negligence.

Duncan Council Backs Advertising Pool Plan

DUNCAN—Duncan city council last night approved in principle a proposal to contribute to an advertising pool being established by Vancouver Island municipalities to promote a tourist advertising campaign.

Mayor Jack Dobson said that the 22 Island municipalities at a recent special meeting had tentatively agreed to share costs, on a per capita basis, of a special $13,000 campaign to draw tourists to the island.

Duncan's share of the campaign cost will amount to $309. Mayor Dobson said that in the past, the city of Victoria had carried the lion's share in promotion of Island tourist attractions. He added that a committee was also working out a method of providing up-island municipalities with representation on the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau which will direct the tourist campaign.

"Our Island has a wonderful future," remarked Ald. J. H. Saunders. "All we need is more advertising and more tourists."

Mayor Dobson said the basic purpose of the increased advertising campaign was to encourage more tourists to come to the island, see more of it and stay longer.

Leo Nimsick (CCF—Cranbrook) objected that standing orders made it mandatory for any member in the chamber when a vote was called to remain in the chamber but the issue was buried.

Gulf Island Run Won't Be Stopped

Coast Ferries Ltd. service to the Gulf Islands and Sidney out of Steveston, on the mainland, will be increased "if and when the necessity arises," a spokesman said yesterday.

O. H. New, managing director of the ferry company, said the recent announcement that Coast Ferries will shortly operate a ferry between Powell River and Comox had given rise to speculation that it would withdraw the Island Princess from the Gulf Islands service.

He said the new schedule, which recently dropped Ganges on Salt Spring Island from its ports of call and added Sidney, is giving improved service to Galliano, Mayne, Pender and Saturna. He added: "We have no intention of reducing this service in the foreseeable future."

Mr. New said that "at the present time and for some time past" the Gulf Islands enjoy far more service than is needed by water and added "all the ferries serving this area are carrying fractional loads most of the time." He said exceptions were on holiday weekends.

"It was for this reason that the Island Princess was withdrawn from the Ganges service," he said. Before the decision to pull out was made, Salt Spring Island, with a population of 3,000, was served by four ships with a combined capacity of over 800 passengers and some 88 automobiles.

CAMPBELL RIVER—The Tyee Plaza landing strip for the Quadra Island ferry will be moved 300 feet to a more sheltered area.

William Beekingham, who appeared on behalf of the accused, asked that the same bail, $1,000 on two sureties, be applied when the case was adjourned without plea and with-out election for trial until April 4.

Green, in critical condition with head injuries for some days following the accident, is believed to be recovering.

Cowichan Schools' Driver Fined $10

DUNCAN—A school bus driver was fined $10 in police court yesterday for making a left-hand turn on the highway from the wrong lane.

Charge was laid against Donald Achurch following an accident near Bamberton turnoff last Wednesday when a car driven by Alfred Schmidt, Victoria, ran into the back of the school bus. None of the occupants of the bus were injured but passengers in the car were shaken up. There was little damage to the bus but damages to the car amounted to $750.

Achurch pleaded not guilty to the charge.

GOING SOUTH

He said he was going south in the extreme right-hand lane and awaiting an opportunity to turn east across the highway to swing around in the Bamberton road. When he saw a car approaching in the centre lane, he stopped the bus. The car, he claimed, hit the rear of the bus and pushed it partly into the centre lane.

SWING OFF

Schmidt said when the bus suddenly veered in front of his car, he attempted to swing off the road to the right so he wouldn't hit the bus' broad-side.

Prosecution maintained that a car could not push forward a partially loaded bus stopped on a steep grade with the brakes on.

After hearing the lengthy testimony of several witnesses, Magistrate Sutton found Achurch guilty but added: "This has nothing to do with the question of responsibility for the accident."

House to Sit Briefly In Fall, Bennett Says

A fall session of the legislature of one or two days' duration will be held this year, Premier Bennett said yesterday.

He said MLAs would gather here either in September or October to ratify changes in the present federal-provincial tax sharing agreement "but this will not mean an increase in taxation."

The premier added that members would be paid some allowance but that it would not be a full seasonal indemnity of $5,000.

He added that "present thinking" was for the session to ratify the tax agreement and then prorogue, but if the Columbia River financing arrangements needed to be approved by the legislature this would be done.

MAYOR MABEL ANDERSON

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy's firm stand on Laos appeared last night to be moving Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev toward acceptance of a peaceful solution of the civil war there.

It was understood that Soviet foreign minister Andrei Gromyko during his conference with Kennedy showed concern that the United States and its allies might take open action, presumably military, against the Soviet-backed rebel armies before hearing from the Kremlin.

Gromyko was said to have emphasized Russia's hope that the Western powers would take no action, through SEATO or otherwise, until receiving Khrushchev's formal reply to the Western peace proposal.

Kennedy was said to have received from Gromyko the impression that Russia would reply shortly to the U.S.-backed British proposal. It calls for an immediate cease-fire, a three-nation commission to verify and police the truce, and a 14-nation conference to work out a political solution to provide a unified, independent and "neutral" government.

MAJOR POINT

The proposed cease-fire has now emerged as the major bargaining point between Russia and the West. The United States and its allies are convinced Russia, which is supplying the Laotian rebels with large quantities of war materials, can call them off any time she wishes.

Kennedy went into yesterday's meeting with the firm support of British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan with whom he reached "absolute agreement" at their Key West meeting Sunday on a tough stand on Laos.

FIRST STEP

The president, during his session with Gromyko at the White House, was understood to have emphasized repeatedly the importance of a cease-fire as the first step to any long-range political settlement.

Gromyko's appeal for the allies to await Khrushchev's reply, together with a Pravda article indicating some "give" in the Russian position, appeared to have eased tension somewhat, although matters were still considered critical.

Angry Mayor Mabel Fails to Prevent Inquiry in Alberni

ALBERNI—An angry Mayor Mabel Anderson last night was frustrated in her attempts to prevent a surprise move that saw aldermen vote unanimously to suspend city council business pending a public inquiry.

Ald. Thomas Hamilton, rising on a point of privilege at the start of the council meeting, read a motion which said the mayor last week had made public statements which intimated "that the affairs of the city are not being properly handled by the elected officials."

He said this would lessen the city's credit standing "both financially and morally" as a result of wide publication in the press, on radio and television.

His motion said it is therefore in the best interests of the city and ratepayers that a full public inquiry be held forthwith; and that meanwhile all city business should be suspended, immediately and remain suspended until the issue was clarified.

Mayor Anderson, after granting permission for Ald. Hamilton to speak on a matter of personal privilege, attempted to stop the speaker in mid-flow when she realized the intent of his motion.

She sternly rebuked him, saying that point of privilege was only raised when someone wanted to "get up and get a glass of water or open the window."

PUT TO VOTE

Her ruling was challenged and Ald. Russell Foxcroft was named chairman. The motion was put to a vote and aldermen unanimously supported Ald. Hamilton. Adjournment was moved immediately following the passage of the motion and aldermen filed silently out of the council chambers while Mayor Anderson protested that council had no authority to suspend city business.

A spokesman for the municipal affairs department said in Victoria last night he had no idea what course of action would be followed in setting up the inquiry into city business in Alberni.

'Fishy' Fire Rages Away

KELOWNA (CP)—Firemen battled desperately early today to prevent an uncontrolled fire in a cold storage warehouse from spreading to nearby buildings.

Already destroyed was a fruit packinghouse owned by Kelowna Growers' Exchange, hard hit March 14 when it lost four packinghouses in an $80,000 fire.

Mayor Dick Parkinson said: "There's something awfully fishy about this fire. It must have been a firebug."

Cold War Tensions Red Summit Topic

MOSCOW (UPI)—Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev probably will assess tensions existing with the Kennedy administration at a European Communist summit meeting opening today in the Kremlin, observers said yesterday.

Laos, the Geneva nuclear test ban talks, disarmament, the Congo and the issue of Germany and divided Berlin also are expected to be brought up at the closed-door meetings of the chiefs of the Warsaw Pact powers.

WEARY MLAs END STORMY SESSION

Legislature Prorogues

Wearied legislators headed towards home last night after Lieutenant-Governor George R. Pearkes prorogued the House to bring to an end one of the stormiest and most sensational sessions of the B.C. legislature in recent years.

Final business was wrapped up quickly after the three House leaders—Premier Bennett, CCF Leader Robert Strachan, and Liberal Leader Ray Perrault—agreed to prorogue the House at 5 p.m.

It was a strenuous 44-day session, marked by six post-midnight sittings and by bitter battles over labor legislation and the highways and health departments.

The first session of the 26th Legislative Assembly began Jan. 26.

It will be remembered for many things, perhaps mostly for its hours of work.

The 52 members—32 Social Credit, 16 CCF and four Liberal—sat through Saturday afternoon and Friday night sittings which House veterans said they believed were unprecedented in B.C.

They sat through 18 night sittings, four times continuing through most of the night and once going 11 hours, adjourning at 7:05 a.m.

Seven Days Longer

The session ran seven days longer than that of 1960.

Among bills passed, the most significant included:

Three-cent-a-gallon increase in the gasoline and motive diesel fuel taxes, bringing them to 13 and 15 cents a gallon, respectively.

Labor Relations Act amendments in which political contributions from union dues are forbidden under penalty of fines and loss of salary check-off privileges.

Education policy changes under which Grade 7 is moved back to the elementary school level and the financial formula for operating costs of schools is altered extensively.

An act to exempt the Pacific Northern Railway from the Public Utilities Act under which it would have had to detail its building and financing plans before public hearings.

An act to allow the province to advance up to $3,000,000 to the publicly-owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway in lieu of a federal grant which Ottawa has said it never promised to pay.

An anti-discrimination act forbidding racial discrimination in public accommodation.

And an act under which government agencies, municipal councils, hospital and school boards and universities in B.C. must make an annual financial statement detailing all spending, including salary lists.

Finch, Tregoff Guilty Death Penalty Sought

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Dr. R. Bernard Finch Monday night was convicted of first-degree murder in the slaying of his wife. His former mistress, Carole Tregoff, was convicted of second-degree murder.

Both defendants also were convicted of conspiracy to commit murder, a capital offense. The prosecution said it will ask death in the gas chamber for both.

DEATH OR LIFE

The penalty for first-degree murder is death or life imprisonment; for second-degree, automatic five years to life.

Miss Tregoff, her long red hair streaming loosely over her shoulders, broke into tears at the verdict.

REACHED OVER

Finch, red-faced and tense, buried his face in his hands. Then he reached over and patted gently on the shoulder the girl with whom he was accused of plotting the murder.

The ending came with dramatic swiftness after more than 21 hours of deliberation by a jury composed of 10 men and two women. The jury took the case March 22.

HOLDING GUN

Finch, 43, one-time wealthy physician in suburban West Covina, admitted holding the gun which fired the fatal bullet on the lawn outside their fashionable home. But he said it was an accident while he tried to wrest the weapon away and throw it out of his frantic wife's reach.

The prosecution charged that Finch and his one-time employee, Miss Tregoff, planned the slaying after a hired killer failed to do the job.

AVOID SHARING

Prosecutors contend the couple wanted to avoid sharing Finch's estate with Mrs. Finch in a divorce settlement. For each defendant, the jury considered these verdicts:

1. Guilty of first-degree murder and/or conspiracy to commit murder. For either, the jury determines at a later hearing whether the penalty should be death in California's gas chamber or life imprisonment.

2. Guilty of second-degree murder, with an automatic sentence of five years to life in prison.

ACQUITTAL

3. Acquittal.

NATO 'Sticky' For New Party

OTTAWA (CP)—Foreign policy—specifically NATO—remains a sticky New Party point of agreement after conclusion of policy meetings here.

Some observers feel that NATO is the most sensitive of the issues facing the founding convention starting July 31. That includes, they say, the possibility of a leadership struggle between CCF Leader Hazen Argue and Saskatchewan Premier Douglas, who remains under strong pressure to run.

FINAL POLICY

A small subcommittee headed by Toronto lawyer David Lewis, national CCF president, has been given the job of putting together a final policy

CAME TO VOTE

The national council of the CCF, meeting Thursday and Friday before the New Party committee sessions, indicated that Western Canada and Quebec still favor leaving NATO. It's understood it came to a vote with the pro-NATO people holding just a slight edge.

Allies Block German Bid

LONDON (AP)—West Germany's allies have blocked for the present Bonn's request to build larger warships, diplomats said Monday night.

Socreds Spent $280,438

Social Credit's central committee spent a whopping $280,438 in last September's provincial election campaign compared to $29,872 spent by the CCF.

Social Credit elected 32 members, the CCF 16.

The election expenses of the various party central committees were itemized in an answer by Provincial Secretary Wesley D. Black to a question on the order paper by Gordon Dowding (CCF—Burnaby).

Most surprising item: The expenses of individual candidates of the various parties.

servatives, who failed to elect a single member, spent $106,633.

The Liberals, who elected four MLAs, spent $36,737 and the Communists, who elected none, spent $4,833.

These figures do not include the expenses of individual candidates of the various parties.
